Yallum Not For Plan On Parking

Says Financing Hard on Taxpayer

Expenditure of municipal funds for uptown off-street parking "under the guise of urban renewal" is considered by Elmore C. Yallum local planning board chairman, to be "open subsidization of business."

In a statement today he said: Recent personal conversations and phone calls to me indicate a misunderstanding, regarding my own position and attitude, as a member of the City Planning Board in relation to the controversial uptown parking lot decision. These talks I have had with my fellow citizens prompt me to issue the following statement.

1) As an individual member of the Planning Board, I did not and do not concur with the decision of mediocre compromise accepted by my colleagues on the board, the Mayor's Citizens Advisory Committee, the members of the Common Council and the administration.

Calls It Hardship

2) I look upon the unnatural action forced upon the city to be the result of a scurrilous campaign conducted by self-interested minority clique; who exerting unfair and excessive pressure upon the city, have now imposed their will — and an unwarranted hardship upon the taxpayers of Kingston.

3) I see the choice of lot sites to be inferior ones, merely politically expedient ones; contributing little to the solution of a distorted problem — other than adding a half-million dollars to the taxpayers' bill.

Improper, He Says

4) I consider the expenditure of municipal funds at this time for these lots, even under the guise of urban renewal, to be highly improper. Application of these funds to these lots is an open subsidization of business at the expense of already overburdened taxpayers, who now contribute to the well-being of these businesses by patronizing them.

5) The role of expansion and providing operating needs have been successfully carried by all other businesses in the city through private capital—not governmental subsidization.

Points to Future Demands

6) The expenditure of taxpayers' funds by the administration and Common Council establishes a dangerous precedent: an invitation to every businessman to demand of the city that it provide him with a parking lot, or else grant him a tax abatement at once. For if this action is permissible for some, it is permissible for all.

7) I do not consider the parking controversey to be a closed issue, despite administration and council action.

8) I would suggest to those, who have contacted me in recent days, and to those who have voiced their attitude, to openly and vocally urge their alderman and mayor to take cognizance of their opposition to this parking decision; and that they take steps to counter-act this unpopular and unwarranted action.

France May Try SAO Chief Salan Again

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP)—The French government may try Secret Army Organization chief Raoul Salan again in an effort to get him condemned to death. But it bowed today to a Supreme Court desire to study further an appeal against the death sentence of his No. 1 deputy.

The deputy is Edmond Jouhaud, like Salan a former general in the French armed forces. They were masterminds of the terrorist war that the secret army still wages against Algerian independence.

In Salan's case the government seeks the death penalty to help convince European terrorists that their campaign to block independence of the North African territory is futile.

Tribunal Abolished

The special tribunal which tried Salan on treason charges and gave him a life sentence last Wednesday was abolished Sunday in a move which may clear the way for a new trial.

Jouhaud was condemned to death at an earlier trial. His attorneys are now seeking to save him from execution.

French sources said Saturday the government intended to go ahead with Jouhaud's execution if the secret army did not noticeably slacken its terror campaign within three days.

The secret army responded with renewed violence, including burning and blasting schools and government offices in Algiers, the capital.

Terrorists killed 22 persons in Algeria Sunday, 29 of them Moslems.

Three Day Limit

A French source said the three-day limit had been established because it was believed the Supreme Court would have had sufficient time to act on the appeal within that period.

Today it was made clear that the court would need further time.

Unless new evidence is brought forward, informants said, President Charles de Gaulle is determined to go ahead with Jouhaud's execution.

French officials said there is

Young GOP Names Woman President Of State Body

LAKE LUZERNE, N.Y. (AP)—The State Association of Young Republican Clubs is headed for the first time by a woman.

Approximately 600 delegates attending the association's 30th annual convention unanimously elected Miss Jean McKee of New York City president Saturday, the final day of the two-day session.

Miss McKee has been vice president of the organization for two years and is a partner in the firm of Conesensus Inc., a political research and polling organization. She succeeds Arthur M. Richardson of Rochester.

The delegates heard L. Judson Morhouse, Republican state chairman, predict in a speech that the total vote in this fall's gubernatorial election would exceed six million for the first time.

This, he said, was a good omen for re-election of Gov. Rockefeller and U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

Morhouse pointed out that 5.7 million votes were cast when Rockefelier was elected in 1958, 5.4 million when Republican

Says Grains Deal Made Before JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal official said today virtually all of the grain storage payments received by Billie Sol Estes were for grain stored before the Kennedy administration took office.

Roland Ballou, assistant deputy administrator for commodity operations of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service, said, "All except $328,000 (of the $7,648,474 paid Estes for grain storage) is chargeable to the previous administration for grain stored in his elevators during the previous administration."

Denies Favoritism

Ballou, in testimony prepared for the House Government Operations subcommittee, denied the Agriculture Department had shown Estes any favoritism.

He was the first witness as the subcommittee began hearings on activities of the 37-year-old West Texas financier, now under indictment for fraud.

"The great expansion of storage capacity that has taken place in West Texas was for the most part to take care of the grain sorghum which was being produced before 1961, in ever increasing quantities," Ballou said.

Apparently in response to Republican charges that grain was moved long distances to be stored in Estes' warehouses, Ballou said: "For a number of years it has been necessary for the Commodity Credit Corporation to move grain out of Kansas and some of the adjoining states in advance of harvest to make room for the new crop.

Moved South

"This grain is moved in the direction of the ports on the Gulf of Mexico," he said. "It can be stored anywhere en route, where the railroads allow it to be moved without the payments of additional freight charges.

"Large amounts of grain are stored in Fort Worth and Dallas en route from Kansas and adjoining states to the Gulf. It may remain in these elevators for several years. It may also be stored in elevators which are not in a direct line, provided the railroads have tariffs in effect which equalize the freight. This is the situation which exists in a large area in West Texas."

Ballou said that a total of $7,648,474 had been paid to Estes for grain storage. Of this, Ballou said, $777,000 was paid in 1959 and $2.4 million in 1960.

"Since the grain stored in his houses in 1959 and 1960 was still there in 1961," he said, 'it may be assumed that at least $2.4 mil-

Wharton Is In Line to Run Again

GOP Delegates To Decide Friday

Congressman J. Ernest Wharton of Richmondville, Schoharie County, is expected to be the choice of the Republican Congressional delegates from the five-county 29th Congressional District at a meeting to be held at the Hotel Stuyvesant in Kingston at noon Friday.

Over the weekend Congressman Wharton announced that he was available and would accept nomination for another two-year term if the delegates from the District sought to again favor him with the nomination.

The Republican 29th District Congressional convention will be held in Kingston on Friday with 10 delegates from the five-county area expected to attend.

Hatfield Not Contending

The announcement by Congressman Wharton that he would accept the nomination if offered, came shortly after State Senator Ernest I. Hatfield of Dutchess County had removed himself from the race in an announcement on Saturday. Hatfield on Saturday confirmed a report that he had been asked to contend for the nomination, but he said he did not intend to do so.

"For one thing" Hatfield said, "I could not consider running for an office which, if I were elected to fill, would make it necessary for me to spend most of my time in Washington. Again I would not oppose Congressman Wharton, for I feel he has done a good job and represented his constituents well."

Way Seems Clear

Withdrawal of his name from consideration appears to have cleared the way for the nomination of Representative Wharton for another term.

In a public statement released today, Congressman Wharton stated that he would be available for nomination by the Re-

Mentions Data at News Talk

Scientists Seem Fully Delighted

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter says he did not become confused or tired during his third orbit of the earth—but was preoccupied with many tasks.

This personal account contradicted a report from an official at the Hawaii station that Carpenter seemed tired, perhaps confused.

Carpenter is leaving today for welcome ceremonies at his hometown, Boulder, Colo.

Makes Points

He made these other points at a news conference Sunday:

1. Frost peeling off his capsule apparently caused the "firefly" effect—or "snowflakes" as he called them—on the triple orbit of the earth last Thursday. He related how he created his own snowflakes by knocking on the sides of his spacecraft.

2. He made a mistake in leaving two control systems of the Aurora 7 on simultaneously. This depleted his fuel supply.

3. After he re-entered the earth's atmosphere, he could hear the Mercury control center here. He was unable to talk to the center because his radio equipment was out of range.

4. He called his triple orbit "easy as a bus ride" and declared he was "ready to go for a two weeks' orbit."

No Problem

5. "Drifting flight offers no problem," he said. "I would be happy to have continued four or five more orbits in drifting."

6. He said he did not know whether his 250-mile overshoot of his planned area might have been the result of failure of his retrorockets to deliver the proper amount of braking thrust.

The Navy lieutenant commander's news conference left scientists here delighted and dazzled. They treasured the knowledge he gained in his trouble-studded triple orbit.

Tells About Haze

He told about the haze layer that America's first astronaut to go into orbit, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., had noticed surrounding the earth.

This is so well defined, Carpenter said, that when the dark side of the earth is seen from the moon "the earth would appear to be a bright blue ring in the sky."

About visibility in space—There is no change in depth perception, he said. The astronaut has the same relative size and stereoscopic vision in space that he does on earth. "I was able at one time to look straight down and distinguish four separate layers of clouds. This is depth perception of a hundred miles."

About weightlessness—As Glenn also had reported, it is "very welcome and very peaceful—there is just no difficulty in accommodating to this state." The space suit itself—in which Carpenter had never previously spent a comfortable moment — suddenly was "more confortable than I'd be at home in bed."

Had Medical Exam

Carpenter had arrived at Patrick Air Force Base by military plane, upon conclusion of a 48-hour medical debriefing at Grand Turk Island in the British West Indies.

He was joyously greeted by his

3 Saugerties Boys Safe, Left Friday

Three Saugerties teen-age boys, subjects of a wide search in the Echo Lake-Plattekill Mountain area near the Greene-Ulster County border, walked out of the woods at 11:45 a. m. today near Tannersville, roughly 14 miles north of where they camped the first night.

The boys had been missing since Friday afternoon when they left on a weekend camping trip in the State Forest Preserve area.

Three Listed

The boys, all former Boy Scouts, are:

Robert Brown, 14, son of Saugerties Town Superintendent of Highways and Mrs. William R. Brown of West Saugerties.

James Bishop, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Bishop of Blue Mountain.

Richard Burke, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Burke, also of Blue Mountain, Town of Saugerties.

Scores of searchers, some with jeeps and light planes combed a 20-mile area during Sunday night and early today seeking some sign of the boys, who reportedly are experienced campers.

When the boys walked out of the woods near Tannersville, they phoned from a boarding-house to advise their parents that they were safe.

Father Gave Them Ride

The boys, wearing dungarees and carrying overnight camping equipment were last seen Friday afternoon when young Bishop's father dropped them off on the road to Mead Mountain House, near Woodstock.

Bishop said the boys told him they expected to camp Friday night near the Overlook Mountain fire tower and proceed north to Echo Lake on Saturday, about a two-mile hike on an open trail.

Search parties including forest rangers, Special Town of Saugerties police officers, state troopers of Lake Katrine Station and other volunteers were combing the area all morning.

Five Children Are Among 14 Dead Due to Accidents

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Accidents snuffed out 14 lives in New York State over the weekend. The toll included five children.

Traffic accidents caused 10 of the deaths. Two persons were drowned.

Ralph Stewart, 11, was killed Friday night by a ricocheting bullet fired by another boy who was target shooting, police said. The youth was struck in the chest while pushing a wheelbarrow in the backyard of his home in Chapin, near Canandaigua.

A mother and her infant son were killed in Huntington Saturday when their automobile smashed into a tree. The victims were Mrs. Bertha Lovick, 34, of Brooklyn, and Charles, 6 months.

Other accidental deaths during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night:

Offices to Close On Memorial Day

All state, county, Kingston City and town offices, with the exception of police, sheriff and fire departments, will be closed Wednesday for the observance of Memorial Day.

Kingston Post Office and its stations will also be closed and there will be no city delivery or rural service. However, for the convenience of post office boxholders, the lobbies in the following stations will be open:

Main Post Office from 6 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Uptown Station from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.

Rondout Station from 9 to 10 a. m.

Kingston City Board of Public Works announced that there would be no city collection of refuse and ashes on Wednesday and that collections thereafter will be a day late.

Massive Search Is Under Way for Plane and Cargo

DOVER, Del. (AP)—A massive search was under way today for an Air Force C133 cargo airplane missing since shortly after takeoff Sunday from Dover Air Force Base. It carried a crew of six. An airplane, among 47 air and sea search units, spotted what appeared to be several packing cases floating in the Atlantic 26 miles at sea. A Coast Guard boat was en route to the area to pick up the cases in an attempt to determine if they came from the missing aircraft, which was bound for Lajes, in the Azores.

An Air Force spokesman said the plane had taken off from Dover at 8:18 a. m. Sunday and was last heard from about 50 miles east of Dover.

Isolated thunderstorms were reported in the area where the last contact was made with the plane.

Dover Air Force Base said the crew members were:

Republicans Report Mail Heavy Against Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional Republicans reported today their mail is running substantially against President Kennedy's plan to finance health care for the elderly through Social Security taxes.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said in an interview that a daily check of mail to GOP Senate and House members since Kennedy appeared on national television and radio last Sunday in support of his plan has provided some surprises.

"The mail from New York to Republican members has been 3 to 1 against the Kennedy plan," Goldwater said. "Even more surprising, the ratio in California is 5 to 1 against it."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., is sponsoring a modified version of Kennedy's Social Security financing plan. California has been regarded by the Republicans as an area where the Kennedy plan might be popular.

Goldwater said that, contrary to Republican expectations, the response to Kennedy's appearance has not been heavy.

The program Kennedy supports is embodied in the King-Anderson bill, now before the House Ways and Means Committee. It would provide hospital, nursing and home therapy care for persons over 65 who are covered by Social Security or railway retirement benefits.

Response to Kennedy's address was reported to have been disappointing to the White House. Kennedy himself discounted the significance of the mail he is receiving.

Goldwater said he thought Kennedy's address hurt him. "His insatiable demand for more power popped right out of his eyes for all to see," Goldwater said.

In a television debate (CBS) Sunday with Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., said the administration plan would bring to bear on hospitals "the deadening hand of the bureaucracy in Washington." Curtis is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Ribicoff maintained that under the administration approach the federal government would exercise no control over hospitals. Arguments along that line, he said, "are the smoke screens thrown up by opponents against the bill."

Place of Jet Explosion Found, Spokesman Says

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (AP)—A spokesman for government investigators said Sunday night they have pinpointed the place of an explosion in a Continental Airlines jet that sent 45 persons to their deaths.

A high energy blast occurred in the right rear lavatory of the plane before it was torn apart in flight, said Edward E. Slattery, public information officer for the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation also were active in a probe of the tragedy, in which the tail section of the airliner separated and the main fuselage landed in a farm yard in nearby Missouri.

Experts of the CAB have been reconstructing wreckage of the Boeing 707 at the Appanoose County fairgrounds.

Slattery said that work on the mockup so far made clear the spot where the explosion occurred.

The type of explosive set off could have included dynamite, Slattery said.

Federal agents at Los Angeles said they were trying to find out whether there was any possible link between the theft of 350 sticks of dynamite there and the jet crash.

The airliner went down on the night of May 22. William G. Simon, special agent in charge of the Los Angeles FBI office, said the dynamite and 900 electronic detonating caps were stolen from a storage yard in the Fernando Valley May 16.

FBI men assigned to the plane investigation conferred with CAB and other investigators here for about 90 minutes Sunday. Later the agents took posession of a brown leather briefcase which had been listed as part of the plane debris.

The briefcase, with the initials T. C. D., had been found a mile east of Cincinnati, Iowa, a few miles southwest of here. That was on the path of the plane's fatal plunge in which parts of it were strewn over the countryside.

Makes Points

He made these other points at a news conference Sunday:

1. Frost peeling off his capsule apparently caused the "firefly" effect—or "snowflakes" as he called them—on the triple orbit of the earth last Thursday. He related how he created his own snowflakes by knocking on the sides of his spacecraft.

2. He made a mistake in leaving two control systems of the Aurora 7 on simultaneously. This depleted his fuel supply.

3. After he re-entered the earth's atmosphere, he could hear the Mercury control center here. He was unable to talk to the center because his radio equipment was out of range.

4. He called his triple orbit "easy as a bus ride" and declared he was "ready to go for a two weeks' orbit."

No Problem

5. "Drifting flight offers no problem," he said. "I would be happy to have continued four or five more orbits in drifting."

6. He said he did not know whether his 250-mile overshoot of his planned area might have been the result of failure of his retrorockets to deliver the proper amount of braking thrust.

The Navy lieutenant commander's news conference left scientists here delighted and dazzled. They treasured the knowledge he gained in his trouble-studded triple orbit.

Tells About Haze

He told about the haze layer that America's first astronaut to go into orbit, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., had noticed surrounding the earth.

This is so well defined, Carpenter said, that when the dark side of the earth is seen from the moon "the earth would appear to be a bright blue ring in the sky."

About visibility in space—There is no change in depth perception, he said. The astronaut has the same relative size and stereoscopic vision in space that he does on earth. "I was able at one time to look straight down and distinguish four separate layers of clouds. This is depth perception of a hundred miles."

About weightlessness—As Glenn also had reported, it is "very welcome and very peaceful—there is just no difficulty in accommodating to this state." The space suit itself—in which Carpenter had never previously spent a comfortable moment — suddenly was "more confortable than I'd be at home in bed."

Had Medical Exam

Carpenter had arrived at Patrick Air Force Base by military plane, upon conclusion of a 48-hour medical debriefing at Grand Turk Island in the British West Indies.

3 Saugerties Boys Safe, Left Friday

Three Saugerties teen-age boys, subjects of a wide search in the Echo Lake-Plattekill Mountain area near the Greene-Ulster County border, walked out of the woods at 11:45 a. m. today near Tannersville, roughly 14 miles north of where they camped the first night.

The boys had been missing since Friday afternoon when they left on a weekend camping trip in the State Forest Preserve area.

Three Listed

The boys, all former Boy Scouts, are:

Robert Brown, 14, son of Saugerties Town Superintendent of Highways and Mrs. William R. Brown of West Saugerties.

James Bishop, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Bishop of Blue Mountain.

Richard Burke, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Burke, also of Blue Mountain, Town of Saugerties.

Scores of searchers, some with jeeps and light planes combed a 20-mile area during Sunday night and early today seeking some sign of the boys, who reportedly are experienced campers.

When the boys walked out of the woods near Tannersville, they phoned from a boardinghouse to advise their parents that they were safe.

Father Gave Them Ride

The boys, wearing dungarees and carrying overnight camping equipment were last seen Friday afternoon when young Bishop's father dropped them off on the road to Mead Mountain House, near Woodstock.

Bishop said the boys told him they expected to camp Friday night near the Overlook Mountain fire tower and proceed north to Echo Lake on Saturday, about a two-mile hike on an open trail.

Search parties including forest rangers, Special Town of Saugerties police officers, state troopers of Lake Katrine Station and other volunteers were combing the area all morning.

Traffic accidents caused 10 of the deaths. Two persons were drowned.

Ralph Stewart, 11, was killed Friday night by a ricocheting bullet fired by another boy who was target shooting, police said. The youth was struck in the chest while pushing a wheelbarrow in the backyard of his home in Chapin, near Canandaigua.

A mother and her infant son were killed in Huntington Saturday when their automobile smashed into a tree. The victims were Mrs. Bertha Lovick, 34, of Brooklyn, and Charles, 6 months.

Republicans Report Mail Heavy Against Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional Republicans reported today their mail is running substantially against President Kennedy's plan to finance health care for the elderly through Social Security taxes.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said in an interview that a daily check of mail to GOP Senate and House members since Kennedy appeared on national television and radio last Sunday in support of his plan has provided some surprises.

"The mail from New York to Republican members has been 3 to 1 against the Kennedy plan," Goldwater said. "Even more surprising, the ratio in California is 5 to 1 against it."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., is sponsoring a modified version of Kennedy's Social Security financing plan. California has been regarded by the Republicans as an area where the Kennedy plan might be popular.

Goldwater said that, contrary to Republican expectations, the response to Kennedy's appearance has not been heavy.

The program Kennedy supports is embodied in the King-Anderson bill, now before the House Ways and Means Committee. It would provide hospital, nursing and home therapy care for persons over 65 who are covered by Social Security or railway retirement benefits.

Response to Kennedy's address was reported to have been disappointing to the White House. Kennedy himself discounted the significance of the mail he is receiving.

Goldwater said he thought Kennedy's address hurt him. "His insatiable demand for more power popped right out of his eyes for all to see," Goldwater said.

In a television debate (CBS) Sunday with Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., said the administration plan would bring to bear on hospitals "the deadening hand of the bureaucracy in Washington." Curtis is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Ribicoff maintained that under the administration approach the federal government would exercise no control over hospitals. Arguments along that line, he said, "are the smoke screens thrown up by opponents against the bill."

Place of Jet Explosion Found, Spokesman Says

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (AP)—A spokesman for government investigators said Sunday night they have pinpointed the place of an explosion in a Continental Airlines jet that sent 45 persons to their deaths.

A high energy blast occurred in the right rear lavatory of the plane before it was torn apart in flight, said Edward E. Slattery, public information officer for the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation also were active in a probe of the tragedy, in which the tail section of the airliner separated and the main fuselage landed in a farm yard in nearby Missouri.

Experts of the CAB have been reconstructing wreckage of the Boeing 707 at the Appanoose County fairgrounds.

Slattery said that work on the mockup so far made clear the spot where the explosion occurred.

The type of explosive set off could have included dynamite, Slattery said.

Federal agents at Los Angeles said they were trying to find out whether there was any possible link between the theft of 350 sticks of dynamite there and the jet crash.

The airliner went down on the night of May 22. William G. Simon, special agent in charge of the Los Angeles FBI office, said the dynamite and 900 electronic detonating caps were stolen from a storage yard in the Fernando Valley May 16.

FBI men assigned to the plane investigation conferred with CAB and other investigators here for about 90 minutes Sunday. Later the agents took posession of a brown leather briefcase which had been listed as part of the plane debris.

The briefcase, with the initials T. C. D., had been found a mile east of Cincinnati, Iowa, a few miles southwest of here. That was on the path of the plane's fatal plunge in which parts of it were strewn over the countryside.

E. L. Tisch of West Shokan With Peace Corps in Chile

Edward L. Tisch, 24, of Route 28A, West Shokan, is playing an important role in a pivotal land reform experiment of the Chilean government.

A Peace Corps Volunteer, Tisch is stationed in the rural village of Longtoma, near the coast in the province of Acongagua, north of the capital city of Santiago.

Here, a large land area is being turned over to the Institute of Rural Education with which the Peace Corps Volunteers in Chile are working, and to a number of tenant farmers.

The Institute plans to build a new training school which will serve as a model farm as well as a source of income. The transfer of the land to the tenant farmers now working it is considered a major step in the direction of land reform in Chile.

Tisch has been assigned to help prepare the groundwork for the move. Along with delegates from the Institute, Tisch has been visiting the homes of all farmers involved and has helped organize meetings to explain the obligations and the duties of the land owners to be.

Tisch and his Chilean counterparts are also planning extensive community development and agricultural work. The farmers have been organized into a group headed by their own elected officers and are considering the possibility of forming a cooperative.

Tisch received his B.A. at the University of Arizona and his credits toward an M.A. at Montana State University, in biology. He has worked in workcamps in Mexico for the Wesley Foundation and is skilled in the use of farming equipment and carpentry tools.

By assisting the Institute in its program of fundamental education and community development work among the rural population, the Peace Corps project is helping to fill one of the country's greatest needs.

A major portion of the Chilean budget is being allocated for work in these fields.

The Volunteers are participating in projects involving practical demonstration in agriculture, raising small animals, animal vaccination, carpentry, first aid, hygiene and family health education. They are also seeking to promote interest in Chile's radio education program.

The project is sponsored by the Indiana Conference of Higher Education in cooperation with Notre Dame University at which the Volunteers prepared with an intensive eight-week training program. The group received three more weeks of training on board ship en route to Chile and an additional eight weeks upon their arrival in October.

The Peace Corps presently has 851 Volunteers stationed in 14 countries and an additional 572 in training. By July 1 there will be 2,400 either in training or overseas and by August 31 the figure is expected to rise to 4,800. The goal is to have 10,000 Volunteers actively at work in 36 countries by January 1, 1964.

Saccoman today put his case over to Tuesday to permit him time to obtain counsel. He is under $50 bail. Police said the car driven by Smith collided with the rear of one operated by Robert W. Weeks, of 240 Washington Avenue, which had stopped for a traffic light. Alfons Ruhland, 51, of Rhinebeck, charged with a traffic light violation, was fined $5.

publican convention for another two-year term.

The 29th Congressional District includes Ulster, Columbia, Greene, Schoharie and Dutchess counties.

Withdrawal of Senator Hatfield's name as a possible candidate will, it is predicted, place the Dutchess County delegates behind Congressman Wharton.

Congressman Wharton was born October 4, 1899, at Binghamton and now resides at Richmondville, Schoharie County. He is a graduate of Richmondville High School, Union University, and Albany Law School with LLB degree. He is married to the former Marion K. Turner. He enlisted as a private in World War I. He was admitted to the bar in 1923. From 1920 to 1929 he was employed by the Travelers Insurance Company in the claim and legal department. In 1929 he entered private legal practice in Richmondville and was elected district attorney of Schoharie County in 1932, was re-elected in 1935 and 1938. He was elected surrogate and county judge and Judge of the Children's Court of Schoharie County in 1941 and re-elected in 1947. In November 1950 he was elected member of Congress and has since served in that capacity.

Attending the convention will be two delegates from each of the four counties, Ulster, Greene, Delaware and Sullivan. Delegates frm Ulster County are Frank Campochiaro and Bernhardt S. Kramer.

Ulster County Republican committee chairman Kenneth L. Wilson will preside.

Senator E. Ogden Bush of Delancey, Delaware County recently announced he would be available if the delegates desired him as a candidate to succeed himself.

From Greene County Neil Brandow, county clerk, has been urged by friends to seek the Republican nomination for state senate. It is also understood the Delaware County delegates remain unpledged and the outcome of the convention tomorrow remains uncertain, although it is predicted by political leaders that Senator Bush will be the selection of the convention.

Scott Denies

beauteous blonde wife Rene and their two small daughters and young sons—and by several thousand friends and well-wishers.

Then he and Mrs. Carpenter and space chief James E. Webb led a parade of convertibles the 12 miles past Cocoa Beach to Cape Canaveral.

Both Carpenter and Walter C. Williams, operations director of Project Mercury, received the Distinguished Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Asked about his 250-mile overshoot, he said the braking sensation was not the same that Glenn had described it, as being "a healthy kick in the back." Carpenter said the accelerometer, before re-entry, showed only ½ G —one half the force of gravity, and "this is not as much as we expect."

Carpenter said all the fuel for his manual control system was expended after the retrorocket firing. He said he had had sufficient fuel aboard but "I managed it improperly."

Carpenter recalled that at the very beginning of the first orbit, he noted that the automatic stabilization control system was operating improperly.

Since this was to be largely a manually controlled flight, he said he was not particularly concerned at the time.

Many Things to Do

Furthermore, "there are so many things to do. Everything you see is such an awe-inspiring sight that you don't have time to linger on things that aren't of immediate importance."

So Carpenter went on with his flight plan and tried to accomplish all of the objectives.

"On the third orbit, south of Hawaii, by count at the debriefing, there were six things going on all at one time, all of which were important.

"I understand the report came from Hawaii that I was a tired and confused astronaut. If my opinion is worth anything to you, this is not true.

"I will admit to being preoccupied. It was a very busy time."

With regard to another problem—the temperature within his space suit, 102 degrees as reported by radio telemetry to ground stations—Carpenter said he believed the instruments were wrong. "I didn't feel that I was that hot," he said.

After a long series of manipulations, he finally managed a satisfactory setting of the valve controlling the water-flow cooling system.

Carpenter said the most arresting sight of the flight was the sunset or sunrise—"it's a beauty beyond description—the pictures will be available later and you can judge for yourself."

Carpenter said the flight was "the supreme experience of my lifetime."

The launch was much easier and smoother than he had been led to believe. There were some small vibrations at liftoff, and peak vibrations at maximum stress at 30,000 feet were hardly any greater.

"I might add the retro fire, the launch—all of the accelerations, the vibrations—everything was less than I expected," Carpenter said.

"It was a very smooth flight."

Says Grains Deal

lion was paid in 1961 for the grain placed there prior to that time."

To Call Others

Ballou's testimony came after the subcommittee heard that many past and present Agriculture Department officials will be called including Secretary Orville Freeman and some who served under former Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., outlined that prospect in an opening statement.

"Before it is all over I think Mr. Estes is likely to find a place in history as one of the most—if not the most—thoroughly investigated individuals of all time," he said.

Fountain said grain storage payments for Estes now impounded will get a thorough scrutiny.

The two Republican members of the subcommittee, in an opening statement of their own, formally requested Fountain to call as a witness Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson as the most logical witness to follow those already schedule. Wilson has carried out an extensive investigation of Estes' affairs.

Called Key Witness

Called as the key first day witness was Carl L. Miller, former head of the Federal Warehouse Act branch. Miller, now transferred to other duties, was the man who decided Estes' warehouse bond should remain at $700,000 even though his storage operations had increased fourfold.

The Fountain subcommittee hearings are expected to recess for the Memorial Day holiday, and probably won't resume until next week, but a subcommittee official looked for a long haul. "We'll be lucky if we finish with this in two months," he said.

Another hearing is in preparation in the Senate, under Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. It will reach the public hearing stage in about a month.

A grand jury investigating the death of Henry H. Marshall, an Agriculture Department official, reconvenes today in Franklin, Tex.

Marshall, who had been investigating Estes' cotton acreage allotments, was found dead last June 3 on his farm near Franklin. The death was ruled a suicide at first, but the case has been reopened and a pathologist has said Marshall probably was murdered.

Republicans, seizing on the case as Democrats did the Bernard Goldfine scandal that rocked the Eisenhower administration, have accused the Agriculture Department of dragging its feet in the investigation. Some have demanded the scalp of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Block on Hunter Street 1st Coated WithNewMaterial

The block on Hunter Street, between Hone and Ravine Streets, was today the first in the city to be sealcoated with Dix Seal, the product recommended by Mayor John J. Schwenk to reduce street-repair costs.

Howard D. Ives, a technician from the company's Hartford, Conn., office, and Thomas Murphy, of McMahon Brothers, Binghamton, the company's agents, were here to inspect the work, which is under supervision of Charles J. Cole, public works superintendent.

Dix Seal is now being produced by the Callanan Road Improvement Co. South Rondout. A comparatively new product in its field, it has been in production since 1956 and was used most extensively first in New England.

3 Saugerties Boys

Tremper fire tower, who joined the search said the boys had with them a transistor radio and broadcasts had been on the air asking them to start a smudge fire to pinpoint their location.

Large Search Party

John F. Roderer of the Special Saugerties police said they were using two jeeps and over 20 men in one search party.

David Fox of Hurley, piloting a small plane with Lew Wheeler of Mt. Marion were flying over the area using a speaker horn. In addition to Roderer, Special Policemen Charles Riley, John Pavlak, and Anthony Ventriglia, headed the search party.

Forest Ranger Aaron Van de Bogart of Willow was also at the scene heading searchers.

Superintendent of Highways Brown and Burke went to Tannersville to pick up the boys as soon as word was received at the Saugerties Town Barn, which served as search headquarters.

A Citizen Band receiver was at the town barn and searchers were in radio contact at all times. Communications were Band Radio Clubs in Greene, Columbia and Ulster Counties.

Although the route taken by the boys on their camping jaunt was not known at Freeman press time, Conservation Department maps show wood roads and open trails leading northwest with one heading toward Haines Falls and the other bearing westerly around High Peak and Round Top. Most of the area is in the State Forest Preserve.

Larceny Trial Slated Today in Dutchess Court

Trial of William G. Stockton, 26, a salesman, indicted by a Dutchess County grand jury on six counts of first degree grand larceny involving $3,500 was scheduled to begin today before County Judge John R. Schwartz and a jury at Poughkeepsie.

Stockton is accused of taking the money from his 53-year-old wife within seven days of their marriage. Stockton married the former Mrs. Viola Tyrrell, 6 Lyons Drive, Town of Poughkeepsie, Feb. 10.

The indictment charges the defendant took $1,000 from his wife on Feb. 7; $1,000 on Feb. 9 and $1,500 on Feb. 13.

In a City court hearing after the defendant's arrest in Albany March 14. Mrs. Stockton testified before Judge Milton Haven that she met her husband Feb. 3 and gave him some money because, "He said he would give me a part in his $60,000 business, and would purchase reservations for a wedding trip to Jamaica."

The grand jury charged that Stockton didn't pay his wife's bills as promised, and had neither a business income nor reservations for the trip.

Chief Noe said the fire was confined to the barn, in which miscellaneous furniture, tools and other personal articles were stored. No estimate was given as to the fire loss, and the origin was not determined.

E. L. Tisch of West Shokan With Peace Corps in Chile

Edward L. Tisch, 24, of Route 28A, West Shokan, is playing an important role in a pivotal land reform experiment of the Chilean government.

A Peace Corps Volunteer, Tisch is stationed in the rural village of Longtoma, near the coast in the province of Aconcagua, north of the capital city of Santiago.

Here, a large land area is being turned over to the Institute of Rural Education with which the Peace Corps Volunteers in Chile are working, and to a number of tenant farmers.

The Institute plans to build a new training school which will serve as a model farm as well as a source of income. The transfer of the land to the tenant farmers now working it is considered a major step in the direction of land reform in Chile.

Tisch has been assigned to help prepare the groundwork for the move. Along with delegates from the Institute, Tisch has been visiting the homes of all farmers involved and has helped organize meetings to explain the obligations and the duties of the land owners to be.

Tisch and his Chilean counterparts are also planning extensive community development and agricultural work. The farmers have been organized into a group headed by their own elected officers and are considering the possibility of forming a cooperative.

Tisch received his B.A. at the University of Arizona and his credits toward an M.A. at Montana State University, in biology. He has worked in workcamps in Mexico for the Wesley Foundation and is skilled in the use of farming equipment and carpentry tools.

By assisting the Institute in its program of fundamental education and community development work among the rural population, the Peace Corps project is helping to fill one of the country's greatest needs.

A major portion of the Chilean budget is being allocated for work in these fields.

The Volunteers are participating in projects involving practical demonstration in agriculture, raising small animals, animal vaccination, carpentry, first aid, hygiene and family health education. They are also seeking to promote interest in Chile's radio education program.

The project is sponsored by the Indiana Conference of Higher Education in cooperation with Notre Dame University at which the Volunteers prepared with an intensive eight-week training program. The group received three more weeks of training on board ship en route to Chile and an additional eight weeks upon their arrival in October.

The Peace Corps presently has 851 Volunteers stationed in 14 countries and an additional 572 in training. By July 1 there will be 2,400 either in training or overseas and by August 31 the figure is expected to rise to 4,800. The goal is to have 10,000 Volunteers actively at work in 36 countries by January 1, 1964.

publican convention for another two-year term.

The 29th Congressional District includes Ulster, Columbia, Greene, Schoharie and Dutchess counties.

Withdrawal of Senator Hatfield's name as a possible candidate will, it is predicted, place the Dutchess County delegates behind Congressman Wharton.

Served in Other Offices

Congressman Wharton was born October 4, 1899, at Binghamton and now resides at Richmondville, Schoharie County. He is a graduate of Richmondville High School, Union University, and Albany Law School with LLB degree. He is married to the former Marion K. Turner. He enlisted as a private in World War I. He was admitted to the bar in 1923. From 1920 to 1929 he was employed by the Travelers Insurance Company in the claim and legal department. In 1929 he entered private legal practice in Richmondville and was elected district attorney of Schoharie County in 1932, was re-elected in 1935 and 1938. He was elected surrogate and county judge and Judge of the Children's Court of Schoharie County in 1941 and re-elected in 1947. In November 1950 he was elected member of Congress and has since served in that capacity.

Scott Denies

beauteous blonde wife Rene and their two small daughters and young sons—and by several thousand friends and well-wishers.

Then he and Mrs. Carpenter and space chief James E. Webb led a parade of convertibles the 12 miles past Cocoa Beach to Cape Canaveral.

Both Carpenter and Walter C. Williams, operations director of Project Mercury, received the Distinguished Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Asked about his 250-mile overshoot, he said the braking sensation was not the same that Glenn had described it, as being "a healthy kick in the back." Carpenter said the accelerometer, before re-entry, showed only ½ G—one half the force of gravity, and "this is not as much as we expect."

Carpenter said all the fuel for his manual control system was expended after the retrorocket firing. He said he had had sufficient fuel aboard but "I managed it improperly."

Carpenter recalled that at the very beginning of the first orbit, he noted that the automatic stabilization control system was operating improperly.

Since this was to be largely a manually controlled flight, he said he was not particularly concerned at the time.

Many Things to Do

Furthermore, "there are so many things to do. Everything you see is such an awe-inspiring sight that you don't have time to linger on things that aren't of immediate importance."

So Carpenter went on with his flight plan and tried to accomplish all of the objectives.

"On the third orbit, south of Hawaii, by count at the debriefing, there were six things going on all at one time, all of which were important.

"I understand the report came from Hawaii that I was a tired and confused astronaut. If my opinion is worth anything to you, this is not true.

"I will admit to being preoccupied. It was a very busy time."

With regard to another problem—the temperature within his space suit, 102 degrees as reported by radio telemetry to ground stations—Carpenter said he believed the instruments were wrong. "I didn't feel that I was that hot," he said.

After a long series of manipulations, he finally managed a satisfactory setting of the valve controlling the water-flow cooling system.

Carpenter said the most arresting sight of the flight was the sunset or sunrise—"it's a beauty beyond description—the pictures will be available later and you can judge for yourself."

Carpenter said the flight was "the supreme experience of my lifetime."

The launch was much easier and smoother than he had been led to believe. There were some small vibrations at liftoff, and peak vibrations at maximum stress at 30,000 feet were hardly any greater.

"I might add the retro fire, the launch—all of the accelerations, the vibrations—everything was less than I expected," Carpenter said.

"It was a very smooth flight."

Says Grains Deal

lion was paid in 1961 for the grain placed there prior to that time."

To Call Others

Ballou's testimony came after the subcommittee heard that many past and present Agriculture Department officials will be called including Secretary Orville Freeman and some who served under former Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., outlined that prospect in an opening statement.

"Before it is all over I think Mr. Estes is likely to find a place in history as one of the most—if not the most—thoroughly investigated individuals of all time," he said.

Fountain said grain storage payments for Estes now impounded will get a thorough scrutiny.

The two Republican members of the subcommittee, in an opening statement of their own, formally requested Fountain to call as a witness Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson as the most logical witness to follow those already schedule. Wilson has carried out an extensive investigation of Estes' affairs.

Called Key Witness

Called as the key first day witness was Carl L. Miller, former head of the Federal Warehouse Act branch. Miller, now transferred to other duties, was the man who decided Estes' warehouse bond should remain at $700,000 even though his storage operations had increased fourfold.

The Fountain subcommittee hearings are expected to recess for the Memorial Day holiday, and probably won't resume until next week, but a subcommittee official looked for a long haul. "We'll be lucky if we finish with this in two months," he said.

Another hearing is in preparation in the Senate, under Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. It will reach the public hearing stage in about a month.

A grand jury investigating the death of Henry H. Marshall, an Agriculture Department official, reconvenes today in Franklin, Tex.

Marshall, who had been investigating Estes' cotton acreage allotments, was found dead last June 3 on his farm near Franklin. The death was ruled a suicide at first, but the case has been reopened and a pathologist has said Marshall probably was murdered.

Republicans, seizing on the case as Democrats did the Bernard Goldfine scandal that rocked the Eisenhower administration, have accused the Agriculture Department of dragging its feet in the investigation. Some have demanded the scalp of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Block on Hunter Street 1st Coated WithNewMaterial

The block on Hunter Street, between Hone and Ravine Streets, was today the first in the city to be sealcoated with Dix Seal, the product recommended by Mayor John J. Schwenk to reduce street-repair costs.

Howard D. Ives, a technician from the company's Hartford, Conn., office, and Thomas Murphy, of McMahon Brothers, Binghamton, the company's agents, were here to inspect the work, which is under supervision of Charles J. Cole, public works superintendent.

Dix Seal is now being produced by the Callanan Road Improvement Co. South Rondout. A comparatively new product in its field, it has been in production since 1956 and was used most extensively first in New England.

3 Saugerties Boys

Tremper fire tower, who joined the search said the boys had with them a transistor radio and broadcasts had been on the air asking them to start a smudge fire to pinpoint their location.

Large Search Party

John F. Roderer of the Special Saugerties police said they were using two jeeps and over 20 men in one search party.

David Fox of Hurley, piloting a small plane with Lew Wheeler of Mt. Marion were flying over the area using a speaker horn. In addition to Roderer, Special Policemen Charles Riley, John Pavlak, and Anthony Ventriglia, headed the search party.

Forest Ranger Aaron Van de Bogart of Willow was also at the scene heading searchers.

Superintendent of Highways Brown and Burke went to Tannersville to pick up the boys as soon as word was received at the Saugerties Town Barn, which served as search headquarters.

A Citizen Band receiver was at the town barn and searchers were in radio contact at all times. Communications were Band Radio Clubs in Greene, Columbia and Ulster Counties.

Although the route taken by the boys on their camping jaunt was not known at Freeman press time, Conservation Department maps show wood roads and open trails leading northwest with one heading toward Haines Falls and the other bearing westerly around High Peak and Round Top. Most of the area is in the State Forest Preserve.

Larceny Trial Slated Today in Dutchess Court

Trial of William G. Stockton, 26, a salesman, indicted by a Dutchess County grand jury on six counts of first degree grand larceny involving $3,500 was scheduled to begin today before County Judge John R. Schwartz and a jury at Poughkeepsie.

Stockton is accused of taking the money from his 53-year-old wife within seven days of their marriage. Stockton married the former Mrs. Vjola Tyrrell, 6 Lyons Drive, Town of Poughkeepsie, Feb. 10.

The indictment charges the defendant took $1,000 from his wife on Feb. 7; $1,000 on Feb. 9 and $1,500 on Feb. 13.

In a City court hearing after the defendant's arrest in Albany March 14, Mrs. Stockton testified before Judge Milton Haven that she met her husband Feb. 3 and gave him some money because, "He said he would give me a part in his $60,000 business, and would purchase reservations for a wedding trip to Jamaica."

The grand jury charged that Stockton didn't pay his wife's bills as promised, and had neither a business income nor reservations for the trip.

Chief Noe said the fire was confined to the barn, in which miscellaneous furniture, tools and other personal articles were stored. No estimate was given as to the fire loss, and the origin was not determined.

Retired Educator Dies

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP)—Frederick Mason Jones, professor-emeritus and former registrar of Colgate University, died in a hospital Saturday night of cancer. He was 77.

Jones taught romance languages at Colgate for 43 years and was chairman of the department from 1940 to 1953, when he retired.

20-Pound Camera Advantage for TV Shooting of News

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hurricane," on NBC Sunday night, was a 60-minute memoir of Hurricane Carla that roared in from the sea and tore at Galveston, Tex., for several days and nights last September.

The huge storm, trailed by a tornado, resulted in death and vast destruction. NBC had a good pictorial record of it.

Even so, it was not a very interesting television show. It would have made a fine 30-minute show, because it needed sharp editing. But to fill that long hour, the camera was permitted to stay too long in too many places.

"Hurricane," demonstrated another of television's problems: Programs must accommodate time spots when actually it should be the other way around.

The astronauts were not the only ones achieving breakthroughs during the space flights. CBS may have achieved a notable one in its coverage — using a 20-pound, transistorized television camera developed by a Japanese firm. have achieved a notable one in its coverage — using a 20-pound, transistorized television camera developed by a Japanese firm.

One of the vexing problems of television has been lack of mobility, caused by the cumbersome, heavy equipment. As a consequence, when the medium had sufficient advance notice of an event it could do a superb job, provided the event itself was fairly stationary. It has always done well with congressional hearings, parades on pre-determined routes, coronations, and sports events. But it had feet of lead when the story was unexpected or fast moving.

But now, with a camera a little heavier than a portable typewriter, television may soon be able to venture out into the big, broad world of fast-breaking news.

Most recent audience ratings indicate that NBC's "Tonight" show has lost about a million and one-half viewing homes since the departure of Jack Paar from the program. This doesn't seem too bad, considering there has been a constant turnover of hosts.

Aren't Identical

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Sidney and Roland Anthone, who are twin brothers, have a surefire means by which others can tell which is which. "If friends can't tell us apart any other way," says Roland, "they can always recognize us by the wife we came in with."

Body of Holdup Man Returned for Funeral

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The body of a chiropractor shot by police in Alabama after an attempted bank holdup was returned here for burial today.

The man, Eugene S. Gault, 43, formerly practiced here and his widow, Phyllis, lives in this upper Hudson Valley city.

Gault had moved to Alabama to make a new start after his practice in Glens Falls was unsuccessful.

But police in Alabama said Gault killed three men and wounded two others during and after an unsuccessful attempt to rob a bank last Tuesday in Clio, Ala. They said he also had robbed a bank in Auburn, Ala., of $29,200 in 1960.

He was shot to death in a gunfight with police in a cemetery near Troy, Ala., a few hours after the robbery attempt.

Invading Outer Space

Editor, The Freeman:

Recently you hear people ask, "Is it necessary for Americans to invade outer space?", (an area which in less sophisticated times was considered God's exclusive province).

In the triumph of careful research and construction we can find something more essential than discovery of fuels that will provide necessary acceleration for take-off and materials that will not disintegrate from atmospheric friction upon re-entry.

Hundreds of pictures have been released through the press showing the astronauts in various attitudes of preparation and flight. The greatest of these does not show clouds of vapor, reclining spacemen, or sky-streaking capsules. It is a picture of Dr. William Douglas, physician and friend of Col. Glenn, caught by a candid camerman during the critical period of communications black-out when Col. Glenn was re-entering earth's atmosphere. (National Geographic Magazine, June, 1962, page 812.)

It is a picture of a man wearing earphones, head slightly bowed, hands clasped under his chin, eyes closed, praying with implete intensity for the welfare of another human being.

Caring for someone, whether in our town, our state, our nation, or our world, indicates the scope of our social and scientific progress. As long as truth and integrity remain a functional part of our government and our space program, the safety of our nation is assured.

The huge storm, trailed by a tornado, resulted in death and vast destruction. NBC had a good pictorial record of it.

Even so, it was not a very interesting television show. It would have made a fine 30-minute show, because it needed sharp editing. But to fill that long hour, the camera was permitted to stay too long in too many places.

"Hurricane," demonstrated another of television's problems: Programs must accommodate time spots when actually it should be the other way around.

The astronauts were not the only ones achieving breakthroughs during the space flights. CBS may have achieved a notable one in its coverage — using a 20-pound, transistorized television camera developed by a Japanese firm.

have achieved a notable one in its coverage — using a 20-pound, transistorized television camera developed by a Japanese firm.

One of the vexing problems of television has been lack of mobility, caused by the cumbersome, heavy equipment. As a consequence, when the medium had sufficient advance notice of an event it could do a superb job, provided the event itself was fairly stationary. It has always done well with congressional hearings, parades on pre-determined routes, coronations, and sports events. But it had feet of lead when the story was unexpected or fast moving.

But now, with a camera a little heavier than a portable typewriter, television may soon be able to venture out into the big, broad world of fast-breaking news.

Most recent audience ratings indicate that NBC's "Tonight" show has lost about a million and one-half viewing homes since the departure of Jack Paar from the program. This doesn't seem too bad, considering there has been a constant turnover of hosts.

Body of Holdup Man Returned for Funeral

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The body of a chiropractor shot by police in Alabama after an attempted bank holdup was returned here for burial today.

The man, Eugene S. Gault, 43, formerly practiced here and his widow, Phyllis, lives in this upper Hudson Valley city.

Gault had moved to Alabama to make a new start after his practice in Glens Falls was unsuccessful.

But police in Alabama said Gault killed three men and wounded two others luring and after an unsuccessful attempt to rob a bank last Tuesday in Clio, Ala. They said he also had robbed a bank in Auburn, Ala., of $29,200 in 1960.

He was shot to death in a gunfight with police in a cemetery near Troy, Ala., a few hours after the robbery attempt.

Invading Outer Space

Editor, The Freeman:

Recently you hear people ask, "Is it necessary for Americans to invade outer space?", (an area which in less sophisticated times was considered God's exclusive province).

In the triumph of careful research and construction we can find something more essential than discovery of fuels that will provide necessary acceleration for take-off and materials that will not disintegrate from atmospheric friction upon re-entry.

Hundreds of pictures have been released through the press showing the astronauts in various attitudes of preparation and flight. The greatest of these does not show clouds of vapor, reclining spacemen, or sky-streaking capsules. It is a picture of Dr. William Douglas, physician and friend of Col. Glenn, caught by a candid camerman during the critical period of communications black-out when Col. Glenn was re-entering earth's atmosphere. (National Geographic Magazine, June, 1962, page 812.)

It is a picture of a man wearing earphones, head slightly bowed, hands clasped under his chin, eyes closed, praying with implete intensity for the welfare of another human being.

Caring for someone, whether in our town, our state, our nation, or our world, indicates the scope of our social and scientific progress. As long as truth and integrity remain a functional part of our government and our space program, the safety of our nation is assured.

THE GREAT QUESTION

For a very long time, perhaps as long as there have been men who walked erect and thought beyond their next meal, it has been customary to decorate the graves of the honored dead. In this country we lay upon those graves the flowers of spring. And we listen, then, to words of praise for those who now lie at rest.

At such a time the perceptive man is confronted by a great question that cannot honestly be evaded. The question, which each of us must ask privately of himself, is this: Am I living now in a way that does honor to the fallen? There is more to it: Am I (each of us must ask) doing all that I can, by word and deed, to carry on the great traditions of freedom and individual worth; does my way of living strengthen and expand those traditions?

Many thoughts come to us as we remember loved ones now gone, and brighten their graves with flags and blossoms. Yet neither oratory nor melancholy do justice to the honored dead. The great question about what we are doing with our heritage as free men must be asked and answered, once again, on this Memorial Day.

STEP TOWARD CONTROL

There is some reason to hope that when the Soviet Union has completed its second round of post-moratorium nuclear tests following the present U. S. series, the world will have seen the end of such testing. Though wishful thinking figures heavily in this matter, the reasons for hope are strong enough to warrant some optimism.

This optimism is based in part on the remarks of Arthur H. Dean, United States delegate to the disarmament negotiations at Geneva. He implied that the U. S. government is inclined to call a halt to the threatened spiral of testing by foregoing additional tests after the Soviet series if agreement can be reached on a test ban treaty incorporating effective controls.

This is, granted, a big "if." Intermediate negotiations have as yet failed to bring such an agreement. But there is cause for hope in the fact that the United States has now done what must be done to halt the test spiral. Instead of asserting belligerently that if Russia insists on further tests we will be compelled to do more testing also, America has yielded a point.

There will be those who consider this yielding weakness. It is, rather, an action out of strength; it reflects expert judgment that the present test series puts us ahead of the Russians in atomic know-how, and that we probably will retain our lead even after another round of Soviet testing.

In any case, both Soviet and American nuclear capability is now so awesome that the time to impose whatever safeguards can be agreed upon is clearly at hand. The world's days of atomic grace are running out. We must, as Dean put it, "redouble our efforts to try to ensure that the termination of the current Western and forthcoming Soviet test series will really mark an end to nuclear tests once and for all." The United States has taken an important step toward that end.

PERSONAL WEATHER

There has been a lot of speculation about vast weather control projects involving satellites and cloud-seeding and the like, all globally coordinated to make the earth a veritable paradise. This is all very well, but manipulating the weather on a global scale is rather vague and impersonal. A lot of people wish scientists would devote a little time to perfecting personal do-it-yourself weather kits.

The need, in short, is for weather geared to individual desires. A gentle rain sent down at 6:02 a. m. and continuing for 33 minutes may be exactly what farmers and gardeners want, but what of those out for early golf? A man should be able to dial localized weather to suit the occasion. That sounds like science fiction, but so do most of today's developments. We hope the scientists are working on it.

HE KNOWS ABOUT WOMEN

On Saturday afternoons, when I go to the opera, I often have tea between Act 2 and 3, with a group that includes one of the world's greatest authorities about women. He is Dr. Virgil G. Damon, who says in "Look" magazine:

"After knowing some 40,000 to 50,000 women, I can say that many were worthy of far more respect and admiration than the men they loved."

It is something of a chore for a man to know one woman in all her changeabilities, but to have ministered to 40,000 or 50,000 of them and to survive to write about it, is an achievement of which few men can boast.

Dr Damon's specialty, gynecology, is one of the most intimate of all medical relations. Few women bear children, certainly their first child, without an element of fear. Nevertheless, the mother instinct is so strong that women come back to that task, time after time, finding in it the greatest joy that a human female can discover upon this Earth.

It is true that more primitive women are reputed to go behind a haystack, bear their child and go back to work, but also large numbers of such women die of child-birth. And many children are born dead too. We have made such enormous progress in safeguarding both mother and child that such an experience as Dr. Damon deals with is, indeed, an eye-opener to those of us, in this country, who take all our benefits for granted.

Dr. Damon has this to say about the present:

"A young woman doctor recently spoke out at a medical meeting against what she called the old-fashioned horse-and-buggy practice of house calls. She described them as inefficient, time-consuming and uneconomical. All of what she says is true. No doctor likes making house calls today, especially in big cities, where distances are great. You never can find a place to park your car, and the call on the sick patient invariably entangles you in the time-consuming process of refusing hospitality from the family without being rude. What might have been taken care of in an office in 15 minutes often stretches to two or three hours on a house call.

"No doctor can charge enough to make such calls pay. But I still think they are worthwhile. I grant you that there are selfish people who use a doctor, who have him come to them when they aren't really very sick and could just as well have come into the office. But you can't make hard and fast rules when you are dealing with suffering human beings. There is a place for healing through compassion; the old 'laying on of hands" still holds true."

I saw a story on TV recently in the series "The Defenders," which, I see, won an Emmy. This had to do with a child run over by an automobile driven by a drunken girl. The child's parents would not permit an operation or a blood transfusion and the child died. They said that it was against their religion. I know the value of blood transfusions from having had several, and I know that just as one calls in an architect to help build a house, or an electrician to put in proper wiring, so is it necessary to have a physician care for the human body, for the thousands of parts, for all the chemicals that move about in us. Without proper care, we might, particularly when one has passed the middle years, find ourselves in very grave difficulties.

Dr. Damon is not too strong for group medicine, which is becoming increasingly fashionable to keep prices down. He says:

"I can't believe it is in a patient's best interests to share her pregnancy with four doctors, perhaps grow closer to one than the rest and then suddenly have another doctor there when the baby is being born. Nor do I believe that a doctor is doing himself a service when he considers his own comfort ahead of his patient's welfare."

To have served so many women must give a man an extraordinary opportunity to discover the nature of women. I fear Damon is too scientific to generalize. He dodges the issue by saying that he is not a psychiatrist. But then, they, the headshrinkers, only catch women on the rebound from experience.

★ The Well Child ★

Infant Malformations Stem From Natural Causation

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Birth of a deformed child, after months of eager and hopeful anticipation, is a heart-break of immeasurable intensity. In the past, the tragedy was heightened, all too often, by an unmerited sense of guilt inspired by misinformation.

Gossips attributed malformations to "the sins of the father," injuries to the maternal abdomen, emotional upsets, shocks, continuance of marital relationships during the pregnancy or to retribution for evil thoughts or actions.

With the early death of the deformed child, parental reactions might be overwhelming. With survival, daily sight of the deformed child and the consequences of the deformity might be a source of continuing emotional drain.

In past decades, we have learned much about these defects. And nothing that we have learned sustains the cruel misconceptions uttered so glibly by the gossips. Instead, we are collecting an increasing body of information which tends to prove that injury to the unborn child (embryopathy) is the result of circumstances unrelated to parental habits, customs, deeds or misdeeds.

Stated in the positive, embryopathies are the result of virus infections, especially German measles (rubella), suffered by the mother in the first third or half of her carrying period. Also at fault is injudicious exposure to radiation during these critical months, or mismatch of parental bloods (erythroblastosis fetalis). Alterations in the colored skeins (chromosomes) that carry hereditary characteristics can be at fault.

As the result of our growing knowledge, we are becoming increasingly equipped to prevent many of these congenital malformations and deformities.

An encouraging advance of almost equal importance is the increasing ability of specially trained surgeons to correct certain major birth defects. To attract attention to these advances, the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, Pa., has been conducting a pilot study of these surgical advances under the auspices of the United States Children's Bureau and the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Of particular interest in this pilot study are lifesaving procedures for the correction of blockages of the gullet (esophagus), intesfines and rectum (imperforate anus); for correction of misplacements of abdominal organs (omphalocele) and for "upside-down stomach" (diaphragmatic hernia). In the case of obstructions to the gullet (esophageal atresias), the previous mortality of 100 per cent has been reduced already to 20 per cent as a single example of the beneficial results of the pilot study.

Naturally, operations of this type must be performed immediately after birth. And their success depends, in great part, on the skill and experience of specially trained surgeons working under ideal operative conditions. Should you require these services, you may obtain details of the study from the administrator of the Children's Hospital, 18th and Bainbridge, Philadelphia 46, Pa.

Is There an Aspirin in the House?

Death Ray or Life Ray?

By JERRY SHEEHAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOBOKEN, N. J. (NEA) — The campus of Stevens Institute of Technology seems an unusual place to uncover a gadget that could develop into the "ultimate weapon"—a death ray gun.

The hilly campus enjoys a commanding panorama of the lower Hudson River and the Manhattan skyline beyond. In this lyrical and bookish atmosphere thoughts of international mayhem seem far away, indeed.

Actually, Dr. Kenneth Rogers, associate professor of physics here, doesn't like to talk about the military possibilities of his project—supported by a government grant.

Rogers is experimenting with plasma. This substance may be his life's blood, but it is not the kind of plasma siphoned into your arm in a hospital.

Roger's plasma is created by pumping hydrogen gas or cesium vapor into a chamber where it is broken down in any of several ways into electrically charged atomic nuclei and electrons. The mixture is called plasma.

A machine then accelerates the electrons at speeds close to that of light, 186,000 miles per second. This device that sends the electrons whizzing is called by the way-out scientific name of megatron—short for megagauss-betatron.

The plasma in action develops remarkable temperatures—about one million degrees. This is about 100 times hotter than the surface of the sun.

Some future megatron-type instrument, Dr. Rogers said, conceivably could shoot a tiny stream of plasma for some distance. Its million-degree heat could burn through the hardest substance. A person struck by the plasma would never have a chance to lament his investment in a fallout shelter.

Rogers, just 32 years old, said, "I prefer to think of any plasma gun of the future as a 'life' ray. Medical science could find valuable use for it in, say burning away malignant tissue."

Does this extreme heat present a danger to Rogers or his co-workers in the laboratory?

"No danger at all said the boyish looking scientist. "The action is generated for only a split second, and these invisible particles are kept from harm's way by magnetic buffers, so the plasma never touches anything solid."

Rogers consented modestly to step into a jungle of expensive electronic apparatus to twiddle the dials of his megatron for the benefit of the camerman.

After the fourth picture the flash bulb batteries went dead.

"What's the trouble?" asked Rogers helpfully.

A couple of 39-cent batteries.

"Gee, we don't have anything like that in the place."

We'll see the full scourge of brutal Communist control over our country by 1972, if not before.

Already visible is a massive swing away from Marxism in the Soviet Union. Increasingly the Communist managers are adopting Western methods. . . . In 50 years, communism as a moving ideology or philosophy will have dissolved away into the olblivion of history.

Decisions 25 Years Apart Show High Court's Trend

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It's getting harder and harder to believe the infallibility of the Supreme Court of the United States. The contradictions in its rulings are growing in scope and number.

Thus, on May 14, the Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling which ordered Maurice A. Hutcheson, head of the national Carpenters' Union, to serve six months in jail for contempt. He had refused to answer questions of a Senate investigating committee.

Yet just a week later—on May 21—the same Supreme Court reversed a lower court and set free six men who had been convicted of contempt for refusing to answer the questions of Congressional investigating committees. In this case, the majority of the court said that the indictment was faulty because it didn't state the subject under inquiry. But the very indictment which sends Mr. Hutcheson to jail had the same omission. So one man is imprisoned while the others go free.

This, moreover, wasn't the only contradiction revealed by the May 21 opinions of the members of the Supreme Court. It brings memories of another decision—perhaps the most important in the history of the press of America—which was made by the Supreme Court just 25 years ago on the right of a newspaper or a news organization to fire its employees for any reason it chooses.

In last week's case, which involved contempt charges, the majority of the defendants were newspapermen. They refused to answer questions that Congressional committees had asked in investigating Communist attempts to infiltrate the American press. The purpose of Congress was to determine what safeguards of law could be devised to check such efforts.

Douglas Finds Issue

The Supreme Court's majority in this case ignored all other issues and merely held that the wording of the indictment was faulty. It remained for Justice Douglas, in his "concurring opinion," to put his finger on a basic issue which the majority had failed even to mention—whether the press is immune from investigation because of the First Amendement, which says Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. He wrote:

"Under our system of government, I do not see how it is possible for Congress to pass a law saying whom a newspaper or news agency or magazine shall or shall not employ. . . .

"Congress has no more authority in the field of the press than it does where the pulpit is involved."

Yet on April 12, 1937, a majority of the Supreme Court—Justices Hughes, Roberts, Stone, Cardozo and Brandeis—ruled the exact opposite in the case of the Associated Press V. National Labor Relations Board. In the majority opinion of the court, which upheld a law of Congress known as the National Labor Relations Act, Justice Roberts wrote:

"The act does not compel the petitioner to employ anyone; it does not require that the petitioner retain in its employ an incompetent editor or one who fails faithfully to edit the news to reflect the facts without bias or perjudice. The act permits a discharge for any reason other than union activity or agitation for collective bargaining with employes."

Law Still Exists

But the First Amendments to the Constitution says nothing about "union activity or agitation." It says Congress "shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press." And the same law upheld by the Supreme Court is in existence today and permits conspiracies by groups of employees in different trades to shut down a newspaper plant by agreeing among themselves not to cross a picket line.

The Supreme Court in its 1937 opinion chose, moreover, to disregard the true scope of "union activity" and to assume that labor-management relations, for instance, is not a subject ever dealt with in their writnigs by the reporters or editorial writers employed by a newspaper and that presumably no "conflict of interest" could occur against which the newspaper would want to protect itself.

One Activity Excepted

The flat rule was nevertheless adopted—and it still is the "law of the land"—that Congress may, by law, forbid employers from discharging anyone, even an agitator, because of activity in a labor union. Another employe, however, could be discharged for participating too conspicuously in partisan politics or in some other field of endeavor that became controversial. Labor-union activity alone was immunized by the Supreme Court.

The four justices in the minority—Sutherland, Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler—took the view that, because of the First Amendment to the Constitution, Congress could not pass any law interfering with the right of the newspapers or news agencies to hire and fire whomever they pleased and for whatever reason they felt was justified. It is interesting now to read a "concurring opinion" on the majority side by Justice Douglas of today's court reaffirming the freedom of the press in even broader terms than were expressed by a minority of four justices 25 years ago.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Just as the Billie Sol Estes volcano began to rumble in West Texas Stanley Walker broke his mysterious silence in his thicket at Lampasas with a magazine article entitled "What has Texas Got to Brag About?" Back in Prohibition, Mr. Walker was city editor of the Herald Tribune, managing editor of the Mirror and just editor in some other shops. He wrote a book called "City Editor," another called "The Night Club Era," another called "Mrs. Astor's Horse," and finally a strangulated hymn to Tom Dewey, which is remembered by those who recall it at all, as "The Little Man Who Wasn't There."

He was a fixture of the Stork Club and a savvy city desk man who could cover more ground with a telephone in half an hour than Billie Sol Estes, the fertilizer magnate, can cover in a month with a Diesel manure spreader. Then all of a sudden, like Dewey, Stanley Walker wasn't there. He was back in Lampasas, not sulking and writing hurt and bitter memoirs, but just doin' around a patch where he runs a modest bunch of cattle and hoes some greens and kicks a hen out of a box when she makes the idiotic error of bragging she has laid an egg. He has never taken a dollar of subsidy and when the government came wanting to dam his creek and make him a catfish lake he ran them off.

Now and then, some paper flips into Walker's typewriter and he composes reflections like his recent admission, in fact a boast, for he is a true Texan, that, as a tourist attraction, Texas and Perth Amboy are about even. Industrial, ugly and colossally rich. She can brag of stupendous industrial development on the Gulf Coast and of a sales tax imposed amid a strident haggling about pennies last winter to make up for maybe $50,000,000 a year which Texas might collect in taxes from her own oil and natural gas. She waives taxes, however, in penance for her devotion to Roosevelt the Warmaker, who made it prudent to coddle Iran, Venezuela and even Mexico to keep their surly tolerance and to husband our own comparative piddle of petroleum.

Mexican oil comes into Texas in tankers at Brownsville and flows joyously into our pipelines whereas the dribble from the Texas wells is limited to eight days' output a month. On the docks at Brownsville, more cotton is loaded onto freighters for sale abroad than is shipped out of any other port in the world, but most of it is Mexican cotton. There is a vast output of Texas cotton, but much of that rolls North on trucks and the railroads to American factories up inland. The American cotton is subsidized at the expense of the faceless taxpayer for the enrichment of such as Billie Sol Estes of Pecos and thousands of other parasite American farmers at so high a price that the foreign market can't buy it. So the Mexican cotton goes right past Brownsville to foreign climes in commerce profitable to those concerned.

Stanley Walker wrote that the treasury of Texas is broke, which is not more than a handspan from truth and that, after all, diversity was the charm of his beloved state. For this, Price Daniel, the Governor, repudiated him. Mr. Walker replied that if his essay had not been printed and shipped in a magazine when the Billie Sol case erupted, he really would have gone to town. He could have done quite a job on Billie Sol and his political friends whose autographed photos hang with the others in Billie Sol's personal one-story Taj Mahal on the road where traffic hurries past another unsightly stringtown of the Western plain. But it was too late so Stanley had to content himself with a prediction that come primary day, Governor Daniel would be turned out to roam in the boundless oblivion haunted by great herds of political ephemerae. He was.

Stanley erred in a passing comment on John N. Garner, who would have become President if Giuseppe Zangara had not missed Roosevelt that day early in 1933 at Bayfront Park, Miami, when he shot Tony Cermak, the mayor of Chicago. Mr. Garner is now enveloped in reticence in his old home in Uvalde. His great wife is gone and he is alone under the too-indulgent ministrations of a Mexican woman who does not police his spillings on his shirt as Mrs. Garner would have. He is sensitive about his whiskers and the quavering quality of his signature. He strangely feels that the Washington reporters turned his picture toward the wall. He avoids visitors unless he remembers them well.

Stanley wrote that out of his long political career Garner was remembered for only his formalized invitation to have a drink back in Prohibition. It ran: "Let's strike a blow for liberty" and was accompanied by a gush of the water tap at his wash basin in his office in the capital, and glugs of bourbon in the tumblers.

But Walker forgot a great moral declaration that Garner blurted when Eleanor Roosevelt was just beginning to clean up. An advertising agency offered him $1,500 a week for a half hour every Sunday night.

"If you are trying to hire John Garner it is too much," he said. "And if you are trying to buy the Vice President of the United States it is not enough."

Mr. Walker has invited me to spend two days in his mesquite brake. He never keeps visitors more than two days.

"I might," I said. "You sound real ante bellum. Have you got any slaves?"

"Only one," he said, "and I am afraid she is not too bright. She married me long ago."

THE GREAT QUESTION

For a very long time, perhaps as long as there have been men who walked erect and thought beyond their next meal, it has been customary to decorate the graves of the honored dead. In this country we lay upon those graves the flowers of spring. And we listen, then, to words of praise for those who now lie at rest.

At such a time the perceptive man is confronted by a great question that cannot honestly be evaded. The question, which each of us must ask privately of himself, is this: Am I living now in a way that does honor to the fallen? There is more to it: Am I (each of us must ask) doing all that I can, by word and deed, to carry on the great traditions of freedom and individual worth; does my way of living strengthen and expand those traditions?

Many thoughts come to us as we remember loved ones now gone, and brighten their graves with flags and blossoms. Yet neither oratory nor melancholy do justice to the honored dead. The great question about what we are doing with our heritage as free men must be asked and answered, once again, on this Memorial Day.

STEP TOWARD CONTROL

There is some reason to hope that when the Soviet Union has completed its second round of post-moratorium nuclear tests following the present U. S. series, the world will have seen the end of such testing. Though wishful thinking figures heavily in this matter, the reasons for hope are strong enough to warrant some optimism.

This optimism is based in part on the remarks of Arthur H. Dean, United States delegate to the disarmament negotiations at Geneva. He implied that the U. S. government is inclined to call a halt to the threatened spiral of testing by foregoing additional tests after the Soviet series if agreement can be reached on a test ban treaty incorporating effective controls.

This is, granted, a big "if." Intermediate negotiations have as yet failed to bring such an agreement. But there is cause for hope in the fact that the United States has now done what must be done to halt the test spiral. Instead of asserting belligerently that if Russia insists on further tests we will be compelled to do more testing also, America has yielded a point.

There will be those who consider this yielding weakness. It is, rather, an action out of strength; it reflects expert judgment that the present test series puts us ahead of the Russians in atomic know-how, and that we probably will retain our lead even after another round of Soviet testing.

In any case, both Soviet and American nuclear capability is now so awesome that the time to impose whatever safeguards can be agreed upon is clearly at hand. The world's days of atomic grace are running out. We must, as Dean put it, "redouble our efforts to try to ensure that the termination of the current Western and forthcoming Soviet test series will really mark an end to nuclear tests once and for all." The United States has taken an important step toward that end.

PERSONAL WEATHER

There has been a lot of speculation about vast weather control projects involving satellites and cloud-seeding and the like, all globally coordinated to make the earth a veritable paradise. This is all very well, but manipulating the weather on a global scale is rather vague and impersonal. A lot of people wish scientists would devote a little time to perfecting personal do-it-yourself weather kits.

The need, in short, is for weather geared to individual desires. A gentle rain sent down at 6:02 a. m. and continuing for 33 minutes may be exactly what farmers and gardeners want, but what of those out for early golf? A man should be able to dial localized weather to suit the occasion. That sounds like science fiction, but so do most of today's developments. We hope the scientists are working on it.

HE KNOWS ABOUT WOMEN

On Saturday afternoons, when I go to the opera, I often have tea between Act 2 and 3, with a group that includes one of the world's greatest authorities about women. He is Dr. Virgil G. Damon, who says in "Look" magazine:

"After knowing some 40,000 to 50,000 women, I can say that many were worthy of far more respect and admiration than the men they loved."

It is something of a chore for a man to know one woman in all her changeabilities, but to have ministered to 40,000 or 50,000 of them and to survive to write about it, is an achievement of which few men can boast.

Dr Damon's specialty, gynecology, is one of the most intimate of all medical relations. Few women bear children, certainly their first child, without an element of fear. Nevertheless, the mother instinct is so strong that women come back to that task, time after time, finding in it the greatest joy that a human female can discover upon this Earth.

It is true that more primitive women are reputed to go behind a haystack, bear their child and go back to work, but also large numbers of such women die of child-birth. And many children are born dead too. We have made such enormous progress in safeguarding both mother and child that such an experience as Dr. Damon deals with is, indeed, an eye-opener to those of us, in this country, who take all our benefits for granted.

Dr. Damon has this to say about the present:

"A young woman doctor recently spoke out at a medical meeting against what she called the old-fashioned horse-and-buggy practice of house calls. She described them as inefficient, time-consuming and uneconomical. All of what she says is true. No doctor likes making house calls today, especially in big cities, where distances are great. You never can find a place to park your car, and the call on the sick patient invariably entangles you in the time-consuming process of refusing hospitality from the family without being rude. What might have been taken care of in an office in 15 minutes often stretches to two or three hours on a house call.

"No doctor can charge enough to make such calls pay. But I still think they are worthwhile. I grant you that there are selfish people who use a doctor, who have him come to them when they aren't really very sick and could just as well have come into the office. But you can't make hard and fast rules when you are dealing with suffering human beings. There is a place for healing through compassion; the old 'laying on of hands" still holds true."

I saw a story on TV recently in the series "The Defenders," which, I see, won an Emmy. This had to do with a child run over by an automobile driven by a drunken girl. The child's parents would not permit an operation or a blood transfusion and the child died. They said that it was against their religion. I know the value of blood transfusions from having had several, and I know that just as one calls in an architect to help build a house, or an electrician to put in proper wiring, so is it necessary to have a physician care for the human body, for the thousands of parts, for all the chemicals that move about in us. Without proper care, we might, particularly when one has passed the middle years, find ourselves in very grave difficulties.

Dr. Damon is not too strong for group medicine, which is becoming increasingly fashionable to keep prices down. He says:

"I can't believe it is in a patient's best interests to share her pregnancy with four doctors, perhaps grow closer to one than the rest and then suddenly have another doctor there when the baby is being born. Nor do I believe that a doctor is doing himself a service when he considers his own comfort ahead of his patient's welfare."

To have served so many women must give a man an extraordinary opportunity to discover the nature of women. I fear Damon is too scientific to generalize. He dodges the issue by saying that he is not a psychiatrist. But then, they, the headshrinkers, only catch women on the rebound from experience.

★ The Well Child ★

Infant Malformations Stem From Natural Causation

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Birth of a deformed child, after months of eager and hopeful anticipation, is a heart-break of immeasurable intensity. In the past, the tragedy was heightened, all too often, by an unmerited sense of guilt inspired by misinformation.

Gossips attributed malformations to "the sins of the father," injuries to the maternal abdomen, emotional upsets, shocks, continuance of marital relationships during the pregnancy or to retribution for evil thoughts or actions.

With the early death of the deformed child, parental reactions might be overwhelming. With survival, daily sight of the deformed child and the consequences of the deformity might be a source of continuing emotional drain.

In past decades, we have learned much about these defects. And nothing that we have learned sustains the cruel misconceptions uttered so glibly by the gossips. Instead, we are collecting an increasing body of information which tends to prove that injury to the unborn child (embryopathy) is the result of circumstances unrelated to parental habits, customs, deeds or misdeeds.

Stated in the positive, embryopathies are the result of virus infections, especially German measles (rubella), suffered by the mother in the first third or half of her carrying period. Also at fault is injudicious exposure to radiation during these critical months, or mismatch of parental bloods (erythroblastosis fetalis). Alterations in the colored skeins (chromosomes) that carry hereditary characteristics can be at fault.

As the result of our growing knowledge, we are becoming increasingly equipped to prevent many of these congenital malformations and deformities.

An encouraging advance of almost equal importance is the increasing ability of specially trained surgeons to correct certain major birth defects. To attract attention to these advances, the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, Pa., has been conducting a pilot study of these surgical advances under the auspices of the United States Children's Bureau and the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Of particular interest in this pilot study are lifesaving procedures for the correction of blockages of the gullet (esophagus), intesfines and rectum (imperforate anus); for correction of misplacements of abdominal organs (omphalocele) and for "upside-down stomach" (diaphragmatic hernia). In the case of obstructions to the gullet (esophageal atresias), the previous mortality of 100 per cent has been reduced already to 20 per cent as a single example of the beneficial results of the pilot study.

Naturally, operations of this type must be performed immediately after birth. And their success depends, in great part, on the skill and experience of specially trained surgeons working under ideal operative conditions. Should you require these services, you may obtain details of the study from the administrator of the Children's Hospital, 18th and Bainbridge, Philadelphia 46, Pa.

Is There an Aspirin in the House?

Death Ray or Life Ray?

By JERRY SHEEHAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOBOKEN, N. J. (NEA) — The campus of Stevens Institute of Technology seems an unusual place to uncover a gadget that could develop into the "ultimate weapon"—a death ray gun.

The hilly campus enjoys a commanding panorama of the lower Hudson River and the Manhattan skyline beyond. In this lyrical and bookish atmosphere thoughts of international mayhem seem far away, indeed.

Actually, Dr. Kenneth Rogers, associate professor of physics here, doesn't like to talk about the military possibilities of his project—supported by a government grant.

Rogers is experimenting with plasma. This substance may be his life's blood, but it is not the kind of plasma siphoned into your arm in a hospital.

Roger's plasma is created by pumping hydrogen gas or cesium vapor into a chamber where it is broken down in any of several ways into electrically charged atomic nuclei and electrons. The mixture is called plasma.

A machine then accelerates the electrons at speeds close to that of light, 186,000 miles per second. This device that sends the electrons whizzing is called by the way-out scientific name of megatron—short for megagauss-betatron.

The plasma in action develops remarkable temperatures—about one million degrees. This is about 100 times hotter than the surface of the sun.

Some future megatron-type instrument, Dr. Rogers said, conceivably could shoot a tiny stream of plasma for some distance. Its million-degree heat could burn through the hardest substance. A person struck by the plasma would never have a chance to lament his investment in a fallout shelter.

Rogers, just 32 years old, said, "I prefer to think of any plasma gun of the future as a 'life' ray. Medical science could find valuable use for it in, say burning away malignant tissue."

Does this extreme heat present a danger to Rogers or his co-workers in the laboratory?

"No danger at all said the boyish looking scientist. "The action is generated for only a split second, and these invisible particles are kept from harm's way by magnetic buffers, so the plasma never touches anything solid."

Rogers consented modestly to step into a jungle of expensive electronic apparatus to twiddle the dials of his megatron for the benefit of the camerman.

After the fourth picture the flash bulb batteries went dead.

"What's the trouble?" asked Rogers helpfully.

A couple of 39-cent batteries.

"Gee, we don't have anything like that in the place."

Decisions 25 Years Apart Show High Court's Trend

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It's getting harder and harder to believe the infallibility of the Supreme Court of the United States. The contradictions in its rulings are growing in scope and number.

Thus, on May 14, the Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling which ordered Maurice A. Hutcheson, head of the national Carpenters' Union, to serve six months in jail for contempt. He had refused to answer questions of a Senate investigating committee.

Yet just a week later—on May 21—the same Supreme Court reversed a lower court and set free six men who had been convicted of contempt for refusing to answer the questions of Congressional investigating committees. In this case, the majority of the court said that the indictment was faulty because it didn't state the subject under inquiry. But the very indictment which sends Mr. Hutcheson to jail had the same omission. So one man is imprisoned while the others go free.

This, moreover, wasn't the only contradiction revealed by the May 21 opinions of the members of the Supreme Court. It brings memories of another decision—perhaps the most important in the history of the press of America—which was made by the Supreme Court just 25 years ago on the right of a newspaper or a news organization to fire its employees for any reason it chooses.

In last week's case, which involved contempt charges, the majority of the defendants were newspapermen. They refused to answer questions that Congressional committees had asked in investigating Communist attempts to infiltrate the American press. The purpose of Congress was to determine what safeguards of law could be devised to check such efforts.

Douglas Finds Issue

The Supreme Court's majority in this case ignored all other issues and merely held that the wording of the indictment was faulty. It remained for Justice Douglas, in his "concurring opinion," to put his finger on a basic issue which the majority had failed even to mention—whether the press is immune from investigation because of the First Amendement, which says Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. He wrote:

"Under our system of government, I do not see how it is possible for Congress to pass a law saying whom a newspaper or news agency or magazine shall or shall not employ. . . .

"Congress has no more authority in the field of the press than it does where the pulpit is involved."

Yet on April 12, 1937, a majority of the Supreme Court—Justices Hughes, Roberts, Stone, Cardozo and Brandeis—ruled the exact opposite in the case of the Associated Press V. National Labor Relations Board. In the majority opinion of the court, which upheld a law of Congress known as the National Labor Relations Act, Justice Roberts wrote:

"The act does not compel the petitioner to employ anyone; it does not require that the petitioner retain in its employ an incompetent editor or one who fails faithfully to edit the news to reflect the facts without bias or perjudice. The act permits a discharge for any reason other than union activity or agitation for collective bargaining with employes."

Law Still Exists

But the First Amendments to the Constitution says nothing about "union activity or agitation." It says Congress "shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press." And the same law upheld by the Supreme Court is in existence today and permits conspiracies by groups of employees in different trades to shut down a newspaper plant by agreeing among themselves not to cross a picket line.

The Supreme Court in its 1937 opinion chose, moreover, to disregard the true scope of "union activity" and to assume that labor-management relations, for instance, is not a subject ever dealt with in their writnigs by the reporters or editorial writers employed by a newspaper and that presumably no "conflict of interest" could occur against which the newspaper would want to protect itself.

One Activity Excepted

The flat rule was nevertheless adopted—and it still is the "law of the land"—that Congress may, by law, forbid employers from discharging anyone, even an agitator, because of activity in a labor union. Another employe, however, could be discharged for participating too conspicuously in partisan politics or in some other field of endeavor that became controversial. Labor-union activity alone was immunized by the Supreme Court.

The four justices in the minority—Sutherland, Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler—took the view that, because of the First Amendment to the Constitution, Congress could not pass any law interfering with the right of the newspapers or news agencies to hire and fire whomever they pleased and for whatever reason they felt was justified. It is interesting now to read a "concurring opinion" on the majority side by Justice Douglas of today's court reaffirming the freedom of the press in even broader terms than were expressed by a minority of four justices 25 years ago.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Just as the Billie Sol Estes volcano began to rumble in West Texas Stanley Walker broke his mysterious silence in his thicket at Lampasas with a magazine article entitled "What has Texas Got to Brag About?" Back in Prohibition, Mr. Walker was city editor of the Herald Tribune, managing editor of the Mirror and just editor in some other shops. He wrote a book called "City Editor," another called "The Night Club Era," another called "Mrs. Astor's Horse," and finally a strangulated hymn to Tom Dewey, which is remembered by those who recall it at all, as "The Little Man Who Wasn't There."

He was a fixture of the Stork Club and a savvy city desk man who could cover more ground with a telephone in half an hour than Billie Sol Estes, the fertilizer magnate, can cover in a month with a Diesel manure spreader. Then all of a sudden, like Dewey, Stanley Walker wasn't there. He was back in Lampasas, not sulking and writing hurt and bitter memoirs, but just doin' around a patch where he runs a modest bunch of cattle and hoes some greens and kicks a hen out of a box when she makes the idiotic error of bragging she has laid an egg. He has never taken a dollar of subsidy and when the government came wanting to dam his creek and make him a catfish lake he ran them off.

Now and then, some paper flips into Walker's typewriter and he composes reflections like his recent admission, in fact a boast, for he is a true Texan, that, as a tourist attraction, Texas and Perth Amboy are about even. Industrial, ugly and colossally rich. She can brag of stupendous industrial development on the Gulf Coast and of a sales tax imposed amid a strident haggling about pennies last winter to make up for maybe $50,000,000 a year which Texas might collect in taxes from her own oil and natural gas. She waives taxes, however, in penance for her devotion to Roosevelt the Warmaker, who made it prudent to coddle Iran, Venezuela and even Mexico to keep their surly tolerance and to husband our own comparative piddle of petroleum.

Mexican oil comes into Texas in tankers at Brownsville and flows joyously into our pipelines whereas the dribble from the Texas wells is limited to eight days' output a month. On the docks at Brownsville, more cotton is loaded onto freighters for sale abroad than is shipped out of any other port in the world, but most of it is Mexican cotton. There is a vast output of Texas cotton, but much of that rolls North on trucks and the railroads to American factories up inland. The American cotton is subsidized at the expense of the faceless taxpayer for the enrichment of such as Billie Sol Estes of Pecos and thousands of other parasite American farmers at so high a price that the foreign market can't buy it. So the Mexican cotton goes right past Brownsville to foreign climes in commerce profitable to those concerned.

Stanley Walker wrote that the treasury of Texas is broke, which is not more than a handspan from truth and that, after all, diversity was the charm of his beloved state. For this, Price Daniel, the Governor, repudiated him. Mr. Walker replied that if his essay had not been printed and shipped in a magazine when the Billie Sol case erupted, he really would have gone to town. He could have done quite a job on Billie Sol and his political friends whose autographed photos hang with the others in Billie Sol's personal one-story Taj Mahal on the road where traffic hurries past another unsightly stringtown of the Western plain. But it was too late so Stanley had to content himself with a prediction that come primary day, Governor Daniel would be turned out to roam in the boundless oblivion haunted by great herds of political ephemerae. But Walker forgot a great moral declaration that Garner blurted when Eleanor Roosevelt was just beginning to clean up. An advertising agency offered him $1,500 a week for a half hour every Sunday night.

"If you are trying to hire John Garner it is too much," he said. "And if you are trying to buy the Vice President of the United States it is not enough."

Still Not Sure How Much Film Can Be of Use

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Three developed copies of the film of Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter's earth orbit have been returned to Cape Canaveral by Eastman Kodak Co., but there was still no indication of how much use the film would be to space scientists.

The 300-foot motion picture record of the flight was damaged by salt water that apparetly sloshed into the capsule and reached the pilot-observer camera.

A Kodak official said technicians made copies of the damaged film, "each time underexposing and over - printing the duplicates to intensify the color."

The copies were flown back to Cape Canaveral Saturday. The original film was left at Kodak.

There was no indication of how much of the film was salvagable or if there would be enough to answer key questions, such as like why Carpenter's capsule overshot its landing site by 250 miles.

Kodak said 199 still pictures of the flight taken by the astronaut were undamaged. They were developed and returned to Florida.

Simplicity in Lamp Shades Adds Note of Sophistication

Lamp shades are as important to a room's over-all effect as the right hat is to a woman's costume. Plain and tailored white shades usually are the safest bet. Metallic gold paper is a good choice for rooms that have no white in the scheme, where white shades would be glaringly conspicuous. Dull black translucent shades are sophisticated when used in the right spot, as are shiny Bristol blue or emerald green.

If possible, try lamps and shades in their ultimate setting before making an acual purchase. The best trained eye can be fooled. Don't ever be tempted to try, even on approval, the ruffled, swooping and swirling models that are as fussy as mother's garden party hat.

Dear Polly: I am 15 years old and read your column because I find it helpful. I have new white French provincial furniture for the very small room I will have in our new house. There is just enough room for a single bed, bureau and two night stands. I thought real light-pink would be good for the walls with white ceiling and woodwork. What color accessories do you suggest? I thought lavender or maybe gold. Will get white carpet.—E. B.

Dear E. B.: Since you like pink, why not cover the walls in your room with narrow pink and white stiped cotton? If expense is to be considered, dress goods could be used. Curtains and bedspread could be made of the same fabric, a good idea in such a small room. Have your white wall-to-wall carpet and paint the woodwork either pink or white. Choose your accessories carefully. Green would be smart in such a pink and white room. A green tole lamp on the bedside table (I don't know why you would need two) and a good-looking green box on your bureau to hold costume jewelry. If you like, put a few boxed, cotton velvet cushions on the bed—green, pink, white and lilac.

Dear Polly: We are going to paint our living room walls and get new drapes. We have tried discussing our opinions with friends and getting theirs but are getting nowhere. We have medium gray carpet and a turquoise three-piece sectional. Since the couch is so big and dominating, I'm wondering if the walls and drapes should be white or should I use pale turquoise walls and drapes? Want the room to look fresh and light.—Mrs. J. E. A.

Dear Mrs. J. E. A.: Forget those friends and their opinions. It is your house and you are the one to live in it. Surprise them with the finished product. Since the sofa is bulky, turquoise walls and curtains might be best so the sofa will gently fade into the background. Draperies and one slip cover (on a chair) could be a gay floral chintz with flowers in shades of turquoise, blues and greens on a white ground.

Dear Polly: I was so glad to see the picture subject in your column. It is a subject I think every homemaker can use. I would like to know more about what kind of pictures to hang in living room and bedroom. My walls are small and cannot take large pictures. Would it make any difference if walls are papered? Please give us something on this.—E. S.

Dear E. S.: Pictures are very personal. One person's love is another's hate. Where wall spacees are small, groupings will necessarily be of smaller pictures. Any subjects look well on plain, textured or narrow striped wallpaper. Floral paper presents picture problems. Never use more flowers but portrait-type subjects, etchings, nothing that will be at all similar in effect to the paper. Broad mats help separate picture subject from the wall. The bedroom is a good place for family pictures.

Stratton Says Rocky Tries to Confuse Issue

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's proposals in the controversy over medical care for the aged are an attempt to confuse the issue and delay congressional action, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton says.

Stratton, who is attempting to win the Democratic nomination to oppose Rockefeller's reelection, said the GOP governor's plan was a "quibbling alternative" to President Kennedy's.

Kennedy and Rockefeller would finance medicare through the Social Security system. But Rockefeller also would provide an option of cash payments to persons who wished to buy private health insurance.

Stratton made the remarks at a news conference Saturday night. He was here to confer with party leaders and attend a dance sponsored by the Tompkins County Democratic organization.

Three Are Held As Police Seize Fireworks Upstate

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Simultaneous police raids in Buffalo and suburban Cheektowaga have brought the arrest of three men and seizure of almost 300 cases of fireworks valued at more than $8,000.

The raids Saturday by State Police and sheriff's deputies resulted from information gathered from earlier raids in the Syracuse area last week, police said.

Possession, sale or use of fireworks without a permit is a violation of the State Public Safety Law.

Arrested Saturday were:

Harold H. Axford, 52, owner of Axford's Wholesale Notion Co. of Cheektowaga; Eugene F. Loary, 58, owner of Loary's Notion Co., of Buffalo, and William Heuer, 68, of Buffalo. All were charged with possession of fireworks, a misdemeanor.

Police in the Syracuse area reported seizing $7,000 worth of fireworks May 20 in a warehouse of a discount store in Syracuse and seizure of $5,000 in fireworks in a truck in Liverpool Friday night. They said the raids broke a ring of major suppliers of fireworks and pornographic material in Central New York.

Four men were arrested in the Syracuse area raids, where pornographic material also was found, police said.

Axford was freed in $500 bail pending grand jury action. Loary and Heuer were released in $200 bail each pending a hearing Tuesday.

Buffalo Church Burns, Nightclub Used for Mass

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Because of a $2 million fire and the generosity of a Jew, Masses in downtown St. Michael's Roman Catholic parish are being celebrated in a nightclub.

The nightclub, where some of the nation's top stars have performed, is a few yards away from the fire-blackened ruins of St. Michael's Church.

A bolt of lightning struck the 94-year-old church Wednesday night, touching off a fire that left only the walls standing. Harry Altman, owner of the Town Casino, offered the pastor, the Rev. James J. Redmond, use of the club for as long as he liked.

"The church is more important to the community than my nightclub," said Altman, who is Jewish.

With diocesan approval, Father Redmond accepted.

A private party of 500 persons was held in the casino Saturday night.

"We closed up at midnight and had a bunch of workmen in getting the place in shape," Altman said. "We made it in time for 6 a.m. Mass."

The altar, set on an elevated dance area, is framed against a background of maroon and white velvet. Tables have been removed to provide room for 1,000 people, about 400 fewer than the church held.

Eight Masses were held in the plush, air-conditioned club Sunday. Six are scheduled daily the rest of the week.

Speaking at each Mass Sunday, Father Redmond said Altman "was among the first of hundreds to offer sympathy and aid in our time of trouble."

While the surroundings were rather strange for Mass, said the priest, the Last Supper was held in a tavern or inn, although one not so luxuriously furnished.

Altman, who has already moved his nightclub operation to his suburban Glen Casino for the summer, said St. Michael's may use the downtown club "for two or three years, if they need it."

The Town Casino usually reopens in the fall.

Still Not Sure How Much Film Can Be of Use

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Three developed copies of the film of Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter's earth orbit have been returned to Cape Canaveral by Eastman Kodak Co., but there was still no indication of how much use the film would be to space scientists.

The 300-foot motion picture record of the flight was damaged by salt water that apparetly sloshed into the capsule and reached the pilot-observer camera.

A Kodak official said technicians made copies of the damaged film, "each time underexposing and over - printing the duplicates to intensify the color."

The copies were flown back to Cape Canaveral Saturday. The original film was left at Kodak.

There was no indication of how much of the film was salvagable or if there would be enough to answer key questions, such as like why Carpenter's capsule overshot its landing site by 250 miles.

Kodak said 199 still pictures of the flight taken by the astronaut were undamaged. They were developed and returned to Florida.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Simplicity in Lamp Shades Adds Note of Sophistication

Lamp shades are as important to a room's over-all effect as the right hat is to a woman's costume. Plain and tailored white shades usually are the safest bet. Metallic gold paper is a good choice for rooms that have no white in the scheme, where white shades would be glaringly conspicuous. Dull black translucent shades are sophisticated when used in the right spot, as are shiny Bristol blue or emerald green.

If possible, try lamps and shades in their ultimate setting before making an acual purchase. The best trained eye can be fooled. Don't ever be tempted to try, even on approval, the ruffled, swooping and swirling models that are as fussy as mother's garden party hat.

Dear Polly: I am 15 years old and read your column because I find it helpful. I have new white French provincial furniture for the very small room I will have in our new house. # Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

This is from the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, May 27, 1910. "The heavy storm of Wednesday night, which consisted of a heavy downpour of several hours duration made a slight freshet in the Rondout Creek. Side streets leading into Broadway poured on to the brick pavement a large mass of stones and mud and made much work for the street department. The sewer on Maple Street was put out of business by the storm due to the large amount of water it was forced to carry. At the Mansion House, there was about a foot of bricks and sand which caused many people to believe that the pavement laid between the rails on the trolley road between Mill and Abeel Streets had been washed out. This was not the case however, and the pavement remained intact."

Another item from a May 31, 1910 Freeman on Mullen's Tobacco: "Owing to the change in the law which prohibits split-ounce packages of tobacco and which goes into effect on June first, Mullen's Tobacco, after that date will be put up in two ounce packages which will sell everywhere for five cents."

I see on June 3, 1910 that there is mention of a trolley car accident. It seems a party of young people were visiting at the home of James Dunnigan, Clinton Avenue and were in a trolley accident on Pine Street. A car coming up from the rear collided with the car ahead and knocked several passengers from the running board. One young woman was cut about the face by flying glass and others bruised and shaken up although none too seriously. Dr. Chandler, the company physician, later in the evening attended the injured.

In Port Ewen, according to the June 3, 1910 column, a horse of T. H. Richards the Broadway grocer there, ran away from the driver while he was delivering goods near the Reformed Church. The horse ran with the wagon right to its stable on Point View Place, breaking the shafts of the wagon and the harness. It was said, the horse was gentle but people who tried to stop it, only made him want to go home to his barn faster. Perhaps it was a very warm day in June and the horse felt it was much pleasanter in his barn than on a hot street in Port Ewen.

On June 17, 1910 the junior class of the Poughkeepsie High School were to give an excursion to the senior class on the steamer Petrel. They expected to come to Kingston Point Park. Our park meant an enjoyable day's outing for folks up and down the Hudson River, in those days.

There is an item in the June 3, 1910 local paper that John Burroughs of West Park had received an invitation to make an automobile tour of Europe with Thomas A. Edison. At the time, Mr. Burroughs had not decided whether he would accept: No doubt, his granddaughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley knows about this invitation and if her grandfather had gone. Her latest book, "John Burroughs, the Naturalist" can be had at our Kingston City library and no doubt all the public libraries in this section. Last month I received a glossy, colorful card from Mrs. Kelley showing the interior of Slabsides, John Burrough's famous home in New Park, on which she wrote me an invitation to visit and see the place, which I hope to do one day soon.

Health for All

Quackery

One billion dollars down the drain! That's the amount of money Americans spend every year on medical quacks and their fake remedies.

Some of the quack products and treatments can actually harm you. Others are merely useless. Using any of them delays proper diagnosis and treatment, perhaps past the danger point.

The Department of Investigation of the American Medical Association has got up six simple rules for spotting a medical fake. You can write off as sheer fakry anyone who:

Uses a special or secret machine for formula he claims can cure disease.

Guarantees a quick cure.

Advertises or uses case histories and testimonials to promote his cure.

Clamors constantly for medical investigation and recognition.

Claims medical men are persecuting him or are afraid of his competition.

Tells you that surgery or X-rays or drugs will cause more harm than good.

Next time you are tempted to try a new pill for that tired feeling or a new diet for that painful shoulder, remember these six fake-spotters and save your money.

You shouldn't, in any event, diagnose your own ailments. If you don't feel right, see your doctor. If he tells you that he is doing all he can for you, you must be patient. If you have had an ailment for a long time, no doctor can cure you in one visit. No quack can really do you any good, no matter what he promises. You doctor is honest with you. The quack isn't.

Students Called Important in Life of Nation

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—College students no longer are "indifferent, silent, beat, shook-up or lost" but are an important factor in the county's national and international life, a woman educator says.

Everywhere you go students are speaking up with petitions to administrations, interest in political speakers and action on public issues," Esther Raushenbusch said at Russell Sage College commencement exercises yesterday.

Mrs. Raushenbusch is director of the Center for Continuing Studies at Sarah Lawrence College.

The graduating class of 237 was the largest in Russell Sage history. It included Sheryl Smith Ebeoglu, whose husband, David, recently won a fight for permission to remain in this country.

Ebeoglu, a graduate exchange student from Turkey, had been ordered to leave the United States before graduation because his visa had expired. He is to receive Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's first nuclear engineering degree next month.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

This is from the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, May 27, 1910. "The heavy storm of Wednesday night, which consisted of a heavy downpour of several hours duration made a slight freshet in the Rondout Creek. Side streets leading into Broadway poured on to the brick pavement a large mass of stones and mud and made much work for the street department. The sewer on Maple Street was put out of business by the storm due to the large amount of water it was forced to carry. At the Mansion House, there was about a foot of bricks and sand which caused many people to believe that the pavement laid between the rails on the trolley road between Mill and Abeel Streets had been washed out. This was not the case however, and the pavement remained intact."

Another item from a May 31, 1910 Freeman on Mullen's Tobacco: "Owing to the change in the law which prohibits split-ounce packages of tobacco and which goes into effect on June first, Mullen's Tobacco, after that date will be put up in two ounce packages which will sell everywhere for five cents."

I see on June 3, 1910 that there is mention of a trolley car accident. It seems a party of young people were visiting at the home of James Dunnigan, Clinton Avenue and were in a trolley accident on Pine Street. A car coming up from the rear collided with the car ahead and knocked several passengers from the running board. One young woman was cut about the face by flying glass and others bruised and shaken up although none too seriously. Dr. Chandler, the company physician, later in the evening attended the injured.

In Port Ewen, according to the June 3, 1910 column, a horse of T. H. Richards the Broadway grocer there, ran away from the driver while he was delivering goods near the Reformed Church. The horse ran with the wagon right to its stable on Point View Place, breaking the shafts of the wagon and the harness. It was said, the horse was gentle but people who tried to stop it, only made him want to go home to his barn faster. Perhaps it was a very warm day in June and the horse felt it was much pleasanter in his barn than on a hot street in Port Ewen.

On June 17, 1910 the junior class of the Poughkeepsie High School were to give an excursion to the senior class on the steamer Petrel. They expected to come to Kingston Point Park. Our park meant an enjoyable day's outing for folks up and down the Hudson River, in those days.

There is an item in the June 3, 1910 local paper that John Burroughs of West Park had received an invitation to make an automobile tour of Europe with Thomas A. Edison. At the time, Mr. Burroughs had not decided whether he would accept: No doubt, his granddaughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley knows about this invitation and if her grandfather had gone. Her latest book, "John Burroughs, the Naturalist" can be had at our Kingston City library and no doubt all the public libraries in this section. Last month I received a glossy, colorful card from Mrs. Kelley showing the interior of Slabsides, John Burrough's famous home in New Park, on which she wrote me an invitation to visit and see the place, which I hope to do one day soon.

Quackery

One billion dollars down the drain! That's the amount of money Americans spend every year on medical quacks and their fake remedies.

Some of the quack products and treatments can actually harm you. Others are merely useless. Using any of them delays proper diagnosis and treatment, perhaps past the danger point.

The Department of Investigation of the American Medical Association has got up six simple rules for spotting a medical fake. You can write off as sheer fakry anyone who:

Uses a special or secret machine for formula he claims can cure disease.

Guarantees a quick cure.

Advertises or uses case histories and testimonials to promote his cure.

Clamors constantly for medical investigation and recognition.

Claims medical men are persecuting him or are afraid of his competition.

Tells you that surgery or X-rays or drugs will cause more harm than good.

Next time you are tempted to try a new pill for that tired feeling or a new diet for that painful shoulder, remember these six fake-spotters and save your money.

You shouldn't, in any event, diagnose your own ailments. If you don't feel right, see your doctor. If he tells you that he is doing all he can for you, you must be patient. If you have had an ailment for a long time, no doctor can cure you in one visit. No quack can really do you any good, no matter what he promises. You doctor is honest with you. The quack isn't.

Students Called Important in Life of Nation

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—College students no longer are "indifferent, silent, beat, shook-up or lost" but are an important factor in the county's national and international life, a woman educator says.

Everywhere you go students are speaking up with petitions to administrations, interest in political speakers and action on public issues," Esther Raushenbusch said at Russell Sage College commencement exercises yesterday.

Mrs. Raushenbusch is director of the Center for Continuing Studies at Sarah Lawrence College.

The graduating class of 237 was the largest in Russell Sage history. It included Sheryl Smith Ebeoglu, whose husband, David, recently won a fight for permission to remain in this country.

Ebeoglu, a graduate exchange student from Turkey, had been ordered to leave the United States before graduation because his visa had expired. He is to receive Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's first nuclear engineering degree next month.

Nixon Urges Primary Vote Show Power

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, hustling confidently along the comeback trail, is urging California Republicans to turn out in force in next week's primary.

It isn't just a routine "get-out-and vote" appeal.

He told a weekend GOP rally: "The size of the Republican vote in the primary will be our way of saying, 'We are strong, we are on the move, we will win in November.' "

Nixon says he is confident of winning the GOP gubernatorial nomination over his chief rival, hard-driving Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, but wants to win big in what may be the nation's most important primary.

Runs as Moderate

The man who lost the 1960 presidential election by a hair's breadth is running as a moderate. Shell is waging an aggressive campaign as an out-and-out conservative. There has been speculation that a light turnout would enhance Shell's chances and that some Nixon supporters may neglect to vote as a result of overconfidence.

Nixon has rejected Shell's challenge to a debate — and won't comment about Shell. A spokesman summed up Nixon's assessment of his primary opponent: "Dick's glad to see Joe make a name for himself. The more names, the better the party. We think the primary fight is healthy for the party. But afterwards we want to unite the party. Our fight is with (Democratic Gov. Edmund G.) Brown."

Steps Up Pace

The Nixon camp professes no concern about some polls showing Brown ahead at this early stage, claiming it will fire its heaviest guns in the crucial final stages of the general election campaign.

Nonethless Nixon has stepped up the primary pace. Until a few weeks ago, he campaigned intermittently. Now he's making public appearances daily. The step-ups have long been planned, Nixon people say.

A few weeks ago, there were grumbles that Nixon was listless about the statehouse contest, preoccupied with adjustment to private life after two terms as vice president and stand-offish with the press.

There have been changes recently. Nixon opened his new home in a fashionable West Los Angeles area to a press reception; he has granted several private interviews to newsmen since then and has reshuffled and expanded his campaign staff.

Hyde Park Man Killed in Crash Of Motorcycle

A 19-year-old Hyde Park resident was killed shortly before 9:30 p. m. Saturday, when his motorcycle collided with two vehicles on Route 9G, Violet Avenue at East Dorsey Lane, Town of Hyde Park.

The Dutchess County sheriff's office said the victim was Donald Paul Corrado, of Woodfield Avenue, Hyde Park. He was Dutchess County's 16th highway fatality of 1962.

Dr. William G. Thompson, Rhinebeck, assistant county medical examiner, who assisted in the investigation of the fatal crash, said Corrado died of a skull fracture and lacerated brain.

Authorities said Corrado was riding south on Violet Avenue when his motorcycle collided with a 1960 station wagon owned and operated by Jean Simpson MacPhail, 40, of 4 Mansion Drive, Hyde Park. The cycle then struck a car driven by Charles Frazier, of 1 East Dorsey Lane, Hyde Park, sheriff's deputies said.

Gaseous Fumes Rout Patrons At Area Resort

Approximately 150 patrons at the Villa Gallica, on the Plattekill-Ardonia Road, Sunday afternoon were routed from the establishment when gaseous fumes from the basement filled the dance hall and bar.

Fire Chief Lester Upright of the Plattekill Fire Department, responded to a call with about 25 volunteers after the building was cleared of patrons and employes.

Chief Upright said Fred Somonza, owner and proprietor of the Villa, was overcome by fumes. Firemen administered oxygen at the scene and later Somonza was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, where further emergency treatment was administered.

Firemen from Cromner Valley were summoned with Scot air packs, which were used by firemen to enter the building. A smoke ejector cleared the fumes from the establishment, Chief Upright said.

According to the chief, a quanity of calcium chloride was in the basement of the building, and water apparently dripped from a leaking pipe into an uncapped can of the chloride setting off the fumes.

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone and other blue chips were batted downward in heavy selling early this afternoon as the stock market took another dive.

Police Probing Safe Job, Two Station Thefts

Local police today began probing an attempt to crack a safe in the office of Parson's of Kingston, Inc., 300 Broadway and thefts from two gas stations.

A cabinet type safe in Lamoreaux's Shell Service, 443 Broadway was entered and some $30 taken, and about $45 and change were taken from the Goldfarb gas station, 575 Broadway.

The combination unit on the heavy floor safe at Parson's was reported broken but the door was unopened. Entrance to the building was gained through the breaking of a side window in the parts department.

Entrance to the Lamoreaux gas station was also gained through a side window. The money was taken from the Goldfarb gas station after a filing cabinet drawer was pried open. Entrance was made through the breaking of glass in a back door.

A car reported stolen from near 224 Foxhall Avenue during the night was located near that address this morning. The theft, police said, was reported by John Anderson of Woodstock. A report early Saturday afternoon said the car of Warren Henry, Box 476-A, RD 4, Woodstock, reported taken from in front of 712 Broadway, was found abandoned in a ditch along Route 212, Woodstock.

France May Try

evidence that Salan, who wore some of France's highest military decorations, smuggled instructions to his followers while in prison. The government could try him in a regular criminal court on such charges.

Found Guilty

Salan was found guilty of treason because of his leadership of the terrorist secret army and for being involved in an attempted 1961 military revolt in Algeria. The military tribunal, which earlier had sentenced Gen. Edmund Jouhaud to death on similar charges, gave Salan a life sentence after it ruled there were extenuating circumstances in Salan's case.

Many Europeans in Algeria felt the sentence showed a weakness on the part of the government, which is pledged to let Moslem-dominated Algeria decide whether it wants independence in an election in July.

They also reasoned that Jouhaud, the secret army's second in command, would get clemency from President Charles de Gaulle. But De Gaulle was reported enraged by the verdict in Salan's trial.

Dissolution of the military tribunal, set up to deal with treason cases by De Gaulle after the attempted 1961 putsch, was announced in the official journal.

Search Woods For Accused Slayer of Five

UNIONVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Peace officers searched through wooded, hilly country near here today for a man accused of stalking five relatives and slaying them one by one.

The hunt centered on the Lee Moffitt farm, 3½ miles west of this southern Iowa town. The officers planned a house-to-house search throughout the area.

Officials believed they had the man, Gayno Gilbert Smith, 24, holed up on the Moffitt farm late Sunday night. But rather than risk a hunt through the dark for Smith, who was believed to have a .410 shotgun and a box of ammunition, they called in the posse, leaving only cars patrolling the roads.

The hunt, by coincidence, centered in the approximate area where a Continental Airlines jet made a fatal plunge with 45 persons aboard Tuesday night.

Dead were these members of the family with which Smith lived on a farm northeast of Marinsburg.

Andrew R. McBeth, 51, his wife, Doran 42, and their children, 19-year-old twins, Amos and Anna Katherine, and a daughter, Mrs. Donna Jean Kellogg.

Another McBeth child, Patsy Lou, 15, was wounded but managed to escape and spread an alarm. Perry, 6-month-old son of Mrs. Kellogg slept through the shooting unharmed.

Local Methodist

Babich; Highland, the Rev. W. E. Worley; New Paltz the Rev. Willett L. Porter Jr. and Plattekill-Rossville, the Rev. C. O. Hartman.

At Friday's session the New York Methodist Conference voted to merger with the New York East Conference thereby uniting 194,000 members of 590 churches in one administrative unit. The vote was 193 in favor and 86 against the merger.

The New York East Conference voted approval of the merger last week at its annual session in Bridgeport, Conn.

Friday's vote followed a two and a half-hour descussion of the proposal as presented by the Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson of Newburgh. Most of the 'opposition was focused on the size of the proposed unit, the adjustment of salary and pension scales, the difficulty of traveling to conference meetings and the choice of a meeting place for nearly 2,000 delegates.

Seen As Economical

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke told the delegates that he had administered a conference larger than the proposed body when he was Bishop of the Pittsburgh Area and believed the merger would result in more economical and efficient administration. It would also do away with duplication of many administrative posts. He also pointed out that, "travel-wise," delegates are in the most fortunate part of the country with throughways and super highways leading criss-crossing the new conference from the end of Long Island, west through the Catskills and north toward Albany.

The first session of the new body which will be called the New York Conference, will be held in the Spring of 1964.

Home Town Has Hero Welcome Set for Scott

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — This home town of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter welcomes him back today with a brief official greeting, but Tuesday it will cut loose with a full-fledged celebration.

City Manager E. Robert Turner said Boulder's 42,000 residents are prepared to 'show everybody what a real celebration is" and called it "the most significant day in our history."

It was here, 37 years ago, that America's newest space hero was born. His mother, Florence Carpenter, still lives here. So do many of his friends and schoolmates.

The astronaut and his family are to arrive in Denver late today. They will be met at Stapleton Field by his father, Dr. Marion Scott Carpenter, and dignitaries including Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols, Mayor R. Y. Batterton, and members of Colorado's congressional delegation.

The Carpenters will drive to Boulder, 35 miles northwest of Denver, for a quiet evening in a three-room suite at a Boulder hotel.

Carpenter starts Tuesday with ceremonies at the University of Colorado where he flunked a course in heat transfer in 1949 and failed to graduate.

The governor will present an award from the state and Mayor John Holloway of Boulder will present one from the city.

The day's big event will be a motorcade through downtown Boulder.

Carpenter's stay in Boulder will be short. After his motorcade through town, a news conference is scheduled and then a luncheon.

Carpenter is scheduled to leave Boulder Wednesday morning and will take part in a Memorial Day parade in Denver. He leaves immediately after the parade for his home at Langley, Va.

Nuclear Device Set off by U. S. Is 14th in Series

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has exploded another nuclear device in the Pacific test area, the 14th announced by the government since the series began April 25.

Sunday's blast over Christmas Island was described as in the intermediate yield range—with a force equivalent to that of 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT. The Atomic Energy Commission said the device was dropped from an airplane.

Stocks Plus Self-Denial Build Children's Future

Q) "My husband and I are just low-income workers, denying ourselves luxuries to give our children a better future. We have a boy in college and another we hope to send there. We own Public Service of New Jersey, Puget Sound Power & Light, and City Investing. Are these all right? We also own a two-family home. Should we mortgage this and buy a multiple dwelling?" — J. L.

A) It is heartening to get a letter like yours. I hope you will keep your hopes high and that you will be able to fulfill them.

Your stocks are all right for you except City Investing, on which the yield is low and the growth picture uncertain. I would switch this stock into Green Shoe (NYSE) selling around the same price and yielding 3.6 per cent.

With real estate values rather inflated, I do not advise you to buy a multiple dwelling. Just keep on with your quiet accumulation, avoid speculation, and your sons should get the good start in life you are working for.

Q) "What business are Textron and Transitron in, and should I invest in them?"—A. S.

A) As regards Transitron, the answer to your last question is no. With Textron, I would say yes, provided you want a stock with a reasonably secure 5 per cent return and rather limited growth prospects. Now just a little about the shares themselves.

Transitron has been one of the major disappointments in the electronics industry. The shares marched up the hill in 1960 to a high of 60 and have been marching down ever since to a recent 9¾. The company's business is mainly in semiconductors, where competition has hurt earnings badly. To make matters worse, four mutual funds have brought suits against the company's directors, alleging that registration statements filed with the SEC in 1959 and 1960 contained false and misleading statements — a charge which the company denies.

Textron is a horse of another color. They make a lot of products from defense items to bathroom accessories, and dividends have been well covered over the past five years.

Two County Servicemen On Recovery Operation

Two Ulster County Navy men were aboard vessels which participated in the recovery operations of the Project Mercury orbital space flight on May 24.

They are Harold J. Setera, boilerman third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Setera of 80 Jervis Street, Kingston, serving aboard the destroyer USS Remey, and Charles F. Barnum, boilerman third class and son of Mr. and Mrs. Bettnel M. Barnum of Kerhonkson, who is serving on the guided missile frigate USS Dewey.

The "Aurora 7" space craft which carried Navy Lt. Cdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter on the three-orbit flight was retrieved at sea by the destroyer USS John R. Pierce. The astronaut, first sighted afloat after the earth-orbiting flight by a Navy patrol aircraft, was picked from the Atlantic by a Navy helicopter which took him to the aircraft carrier USS Intrepid. He later was flown to Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas.

Participating in the recovery operation were 32 U.S. Navy ships and units which were on station in the Atlantic range area.

Nixon Urges Primary Vote Show Power

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, hustling confidently along the comeback trail, is urging California Republicans to turn out in force in next week's primary.

It isn't just a routine "get-out-and vote" appeal.

He told a weekend GOP rally: "The size of the Republican vote in the primary will be our way of saying, 'We are strong, we are on the move, we will win in November.' "

Nixon says he is confident of winning the GOP gubernatorial nomination over his chief rival, hard-driving Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, but wants to win big in what may be the nation's most important primary.

Runs as Moderate

The man who lost the 1960 presidential election by a hair's breadth is running as a moderate. Shell is waging an aggressive campaign as an out-and-out conservative. There has been speculation that a light turnout would enhance Shell's chances and that some Nixon supporters may neglect to vote as a result of overconfidence.

Nixon has rejected Shell's challenge to a debate — and won't comment about Shell. A spokesman summed up Nixon's assessment of his primary opponent: "Dick's glad to see Joe make a name for himself. The more names, the better the party. We think the primary fight is healthy for the party. But afterwards we want to unite the party. Our fight is with (Democratic Gov. Edmund G.) Brown."

Steps Up Pace

The Nixon camp professes no concern about some polls showing Brown ahead at this early stage, claiming it will fire its heaviest guns in the crucial final stages of the general election campaign.

Nonetheless Nixon has stepped up the primary pace. Until a few weeks ago, he campaigned intermittently. Now he's making public appearances daily. The step-ups have long been planned, Nixon people say.

A few weeks ago, there were grumbles that Nixon was listless about the statehouse contest, preoccupied with adjustment to private life after two terms as vice president and stand-offish with the press.

There have been changes recently. Nixon opened his new home in a fashionable West Los Angeles area to a press reception; he has granted several private interviews to newsmen since then and has reshuffled and expanded his campaign staff.

Hyde Park Man Killed in Crash Of Motorcycle

A 19-year-old Hyde Park resident was killed shortly before 9:30 p. m. Saturday, when his motorcycle collided with two vehicles on Route 9G, Violet Avenue at East Dorsey Lane, Town of Hyde Park.

The Dutchess County sheriff's office said the victim was Donald Paul Corrado, of Woodfield Avenue, Hyde Park. He was Dutchess County's 16th highway fatality of 1962.

Dr. William G. Thompson, Rhinebeck, assistant county medical examiner, who assisted in the investigation of the fatal crash, said Corrado died of a skull fracture and lacerated brain.

Authorities said Corrado was riding south on Violet Avenue when his motorcycle collided with a 1960 station wagon owned and operated by Jean Simpson MacPhail, 40, of 4 Mansion Drive, Hyde Park. The cycle then struck a car driven by Charles Frazier, of 1 East Dorsey Lane, Hyde Park, sheriff's deputies said.

Gaseous Fumes Rout Patrons At Area Resort

Approximately 150 patrons at the Villa Gallica, on the Plattekill-Ardonia Road, Sunday afternoon were routed from the establishment when gaseous fumes from the basement filled the dance hall and bar.

Fire Chief Lester Upright of the Plattekill Fire Department, responded to a call with about 25 volunteers after the building was cleared of patrons and employes.

Chief Upright said Fred Somonza, owner and proprietor of the Villa, was overcome by fumes. Firemen administered oxygen at the scene and later Somonza was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, where further emergency treatment was administered.

Firemen from Cromner Valley were summoned with Scot air packs, which were used by firemen to enter the building. A smoke ejector cleared the fumes from the establishment, Chief Upright said.

According to the chief, a quantity of calcium chloride was in the basement of the building, and water apparently dripped from a leaking pipe into an uncapped can of the chloride setting off the fumes.

Police Probing Safe Job, Two Station Thefts

Local police today began probing an attempt to crack a safe in the office of Parson's of Kingston, Inc., 300 Broadway and thefts from two gas stations.

A cabinet type safe in Lamoreaux's Shell Service, 443 Broadway was entered and some $30 taken, and about $45 and change were taken from the Goldfarb gas station, 575 Broadway.

The combination unit on the heavy floor safe at Parson's was reported broken but the door was unopened. Entrance to the building was gained through the breaking of a side window in the parts department.

Entrance to the Lamoreaux gas station was also gained through a side window. The money was taken from the Goldfarb gas station after a filing cabinet drawer was pried open. Entrance was made through the breaking of glass in a back door.

A car reported stolen from near 224 Foxhall Avenue during the night was located near that address this morning. The theft, police said, was reported by John Anderson of Woodstock. A report early Saturday afternoon said the car of Warren Henry, Box 476-A, RD 4, Woodstock, reported taken from in front of 712 Broadway, was found abandoned in a ditch along Route 212, Woodstock.

France May Try

evidence that Salan, who wore some of France's highest military decorations, smuggled instructions to his followers while in prison. The government could try him in a regular criminal court on such charges.

Found Guilty

Salan was found guilty of treason because of his leadership of the terrorist secret army and for being involved in an attempted 1961 military revolt in Algeria. The military tribunal, which earlier had sentenced Gen. Edmund Jouhaud to death on similar charges, gave Salan a life sentence after it ruled there were extenuating circumstances in Salan's case.

Many Europeans in Algeria felt the sentence showed a weakness on the part of the government, which is pledged to let Moslem-dominated Algeria decide whether it wants independence in an election in July.

They also reasoned that Jouhaud, the secret army's second in command, would get clemency from President Charles de Gaulle. But De Gaulle was reported enraged by the verdict in Salan's trial.

Dissolution of the military tribunal, set up to deal with treason cases by De Gaulle after the attempted 1961 putsch, was announced in the official journal.

Search Woods For Accused Slayer of Five

UNIONVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Peace officers searched through wooded, hilly country near here today for a man accused of stalking five relatives and slaying them one by one.

The hunt centered on the Lee Moffitt farm, 3½ miles west of this southern Iowa town. The officers planned a house-to-house search throughout the area.

Officials believed they had the man, Gayno Gilbert Smith, 24, holed up on the Moffitt farm late Sunday night. But rather than risk a hunt through the dark for Smith, who was believed to have a .410 shotgun and a box of ammunition, they called in the posse, leaving only cars patrolling the roads.

The hunt, by coincidence, centered in the approximate area where a Continental Airlines jet made a fatal plunge with 45 persons aboard Tuesday night.

Dead were these members of the family with which Smith lived on a farm northeast of Marinsburg.

Andrew R. McBeth, 51, his wife, Doran 42, and their children, 19-year-old twins, Amos and Anna Katherine, and a daughter, Mrs. Donna Jean Kellogg.

Another McBeth child, Patsy Lou, 15, was wounded but managed to escape and spread an alarm. Perry, 6-month-old son of Mrs. Kellogg slept through the shooting unharmed.

Local Methodist

Babich; Highland ,the Rev. W. E. Worley; New Paltz the Rev. Willett L. Porter Jr. and Plattekill-Rossville, the Rev. C. O. Hartman.

At Friday's session the New York Methodist Conference voted to merger with the New York East Conference thereby uniting 194,000 members of 590 churches in one administrative unit. The vote was 193 in favor and 86 against the merger.

The New York East Conference voted approval of the merger last week at its annual session in Bridgeport, Conn.

Friday's vote followed a two and a half-hour descussion of the proposal as presented by the Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson of Newburgh. Most of the 'opposition was focused on the size of the proposed unit, the adjustment of salary and pension scales, the difficulty of traveling to conference meetings and the choice of a meeting place for nearly 2,000 delegates.

Seen As Economical

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke told the delegates that he had administered a conference larger than the proposed body when he was Bishop of the Pittsburgh Area and believed the merger would result in more economical and efficient administration. It would also do away with duplication of many administrative posts. He also pointed out that, "travel-wise," delegates are in the most fortunate part of the country with throughways and super highways leading criss-crossing the new conference from the end of Long Island, west through the Catskills and north toward Albany.

The first session of the new body which will be called the New York Conference, will be held in the Spring of 1964.

Home Town Has Hero Welcome Set for Scott

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — This home town of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter welcomes him back today with a brief official greeting, but Tuesday it will cut loose with a full-fledged celebration.

City Manager E. Robert Turner said Boulder's 42,000 residents are prepared to 'show everybody what a real celebration is" and called it "the most significant day in our history."

It was here, 37 years ago, that America's newest space hero was born. His mother, Florence Carpenter, still lives here. So do many of his friends and schoolmates.

The astronaut and his family are to arrive in Denver late today. They will be met at Stapleton Field by his father, Dr. Marion Scott Carpenter, and dignitaries including Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols, Mayor R. Y. Batterton, and members of Colorado's congressional delegation.

The Carpenters will drive to Boulder, 35 miles northwest of Denver, for a quiet evening in a three-room suite at a Boulder hotel.

Carpenter starts Tuesday with ceremonies at the University of Colorado where he flunked a course in heat transfer in 1949 and failed to graduate.

The governor will present an award from the state and Mayor John Holloway of Boulder will present one from the city.

The day's big event will be a motorcade through downtown Boulder.

Carpenter's stay in Boulder will be short. After his motorcade through town, a news conference is scheduled and then a luncheon.

Carpenter is scheduled to leave Boulder Wednesday morning and will take part in a Memorial Day parade in Denver. He leaves immediately after the parade for his home at Langley, Va.

Nuclear Device Set off by U. S. Is 14th in Series

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has exploded another nuclear device in the Pacific test area, the 14th announced by the government since the series began April 25.

Sunday's blast over Christmas Island was described as in the intermediate yield range—with a force equivalent to that of 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT. The Atomic Energy Commission said the device was dropped from an airplane.

Stocks Plus Self-Denial Build Children's Future

Q) "My husband and I are just low-income workers, denying ourselves luxuries to give our children a better future. We have a boy in college and another we hope to send there. We own Public Service of New Jersey, Puget Sound Power & Light, and City Investing. Are these all right? We also own a two-family home. Should we mortgage this and buy a multiple dwelling?" — J. L.

A) It is heartening to get a letter like yours. I hope you will keep your hopes high and that you will be able to fulfill them.

Your stocks are all right for you except City Investing, on which the yield is low and the growth picture uncertain. I would switch this stock into Green Shoe (NYSE) selling around the same price and yielding 3.6 per cent.

With real estate values rather inflated, I do not advise you to buy a multiple dwelling. Just keep on with your quiet accumulation, avoid speculation, and your sons should get the good start in life you are working for.

Q) "What business are Textron and Transitron in, and should I invest in them?"—A. S.

A) As regards Transitron, the answer to your last question is no. With Textron, I would say yes, provided you want a stock with a reasonably secure 5 per cent return and rather limited growth prospects. Now just a little about the shares themselves.

Transitron has been one of the major disappointments in the electronics industry. The shares marched up the hill in 1960 to a high of 60 and have been marching down ever since to a recent 9¾. The company's business is mainly in semiconductors, where competition has hurt earnings badly. To make matters worse, four mutual funds have brought suits against the company's directors, alleging that registration statements filed with the SEC in 1959 and 1960 contained false and misleading statements — a charge which the company denies.

Textron is a horse of another color. They make a lot of products from defense items to bathroom accessories, and dividends have been well covered over the past five years.

Two County Servicemen On Recovery Operation

Two Ulster County Navy men were aboard vessels which participated in the recovery operations of the Project Mercury orbital space flight on May 24.

They are Harold J. Setera, boilerman third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Setera of 80 Jervis Street, Kingston, serving aboard the destroyer USS Remey, and Charles F. Barnum, boilerman third class and son of Mr. and Mrs. Bettnel M. Barnum of Kerhonkson, who is serving on the guided missile frigate USS Dewey.

The "Aurora 7" space craft which carried Navy Lt. Cdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter on the three-orbit flight was retrieved at sea by the destroyer USS John R. Pierce. The astronaut, first sighted afloat after the earth-orbiting flight by a Navy patrol aircraft, was picked from the Atlantic by a Navy helicopter which took him to the aircraft carrier USS Intrepid. He later was flown to Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas.

Participating in the recovery operation were 32 U.S. Navy ships and units which were on station in the Atlantic range area.

No Cause Verdict In Negligence Case

A negligence action brought by Arthur Miller and wife of Hurley against The Wallace Company and another, Poughkeepsie, which was tried in Supreme Court before Justice Louis G. Bruhn and a jury, resulted in a no cause verdict. Mrs. Miller was injured when she fell over a carriage in an aisle at the Wallace store in Poughkeepsie on July 15, 1958.

Michael Nardone appeared for plaintiffs and Rosen and Rosen and Cook and Cook for defendants.

A jury was selected in an automobile negligence action brought by Morris Widelitz against William Strasser, John A. Bonomi for plaintiff and John L. Larkin for defendant.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Everyone in Hollywood has been talking about runaway film production, but no one has done anything about it—until now.

Elements of the film industry, especially labor, have been lamenting the flight of American-sponsored movies to foreign lands for two or three years. At last the problem is being attacked in concrete terms, and with some success so far.

George Stevens has been cast in the part of crusader for home-based filming. He denies any such grandiose role, declaring he merely wants to make "The Greatest Story Ever Told" sensibly and well.

Resisted Offers

Stevens resisted attractive offers to shoot the Christ story overseas. A meticulous creator, he appreciates the quality of Hollywood craftsmen. But he was also determined that the $10 million he intends to spend will not be wasted.

"Production has already run away," argues the producer-director. "We'd like to do something to bring it back. If we can demonstrate that a film of this scope and importance can be made reasonably in the United States, perhaps other producers will be encouraged to follow our lead.

"But writing letters to the editor won't do it. Waste in any area is something we can no longer indulge. Every resource that goes into our film must be carefully considered—and we are willing to spend what money is necessary to get something very good onto the screen.

"What we cannot live with is featherbedding."

Stevens has thus held meetings with various unions and guilds to seek "clarification of contracts." He has already achieved more realistic terms with the extras, costumes and property men.

Up Against Stone Wall

He ran up against a stone wall in his talks with the camera union over standby still photographers which have been required when outside lensmen visit the set. Curiously, this is Stevens' own union and one of those most vocal against runaway filming.

The industry at large, both management and labor, is also moving in the direction of urging political action to stem the drain of film production to oversea locations.

Meetings of representatives from all segments of the industry have been held over a period of months. Five areas of action have been proposed:

1. To urge the Small Business Administration to change its ban against loans to the communication industry.

2. To seek passage of the administration's new tax bill. One of the provisions would lessen the tax advantage for stars and other film creators who live and work overseas.

Seek Better Tax Setup

3. To seek a better tax setup for highly-paid talent. Stars might thus be induced to make more movies rather than holding off "because all the money goes to the government."

4. To ask government agencies to seek relief from tariffs that discriminate against American films overseas.

5. To initiate a survey on the cost differential of Hollywood vs. foreign production.

The industry is now seeking ways to implement these proposals. Nearly everyone agrees the time for talk is past. "Action is needed to save Hollywood from becoming a ghost town," one top producer said recently.

Seventh Annual Page One Ball Is Held; City, County and State Officials Attend

The Seventh Annual Page One Ball drew a capacity attendance Saturday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Sponsored by the Kingston Newspaper Guild, friends and government officials paid tribute to six Page One Award winners and applauded the selection of the new Page One Queen for 1962.

U. S. Senator Jacob K. Javits sent a special message of congratulations to the Guild which was read by the Guild president, Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, general coordinator of the Page One Ball.

Miss Sara Imhoff, 17 year old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Imhoff of Saugerties was crowned queen. First runner-up was Linda Louise Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lambert of Esopus, and second runner-up was Jane Markovsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Markovsky of Kingston. The new queen was crowned by Miss Page One of 1961, Miss Mary Chambers of Kingston.

Officials Attend

Among the many dignitaries attending the Page One function this year were Senator and Mrs. E. Ogden Bush; Assemblyman and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson; Alderman-at-Large and Mrs. Harold Kaye; Mayor and Mrs. John J. Schwenk; Bernhardt S. Kramer, representative for Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, and Mrs. Kramer; Maurice Goldberg, an assistant to the State Attorney General, and Mrs. Goldberg; and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy.

Also seated at the speakers table was the international president of the American Newspaper Guild, Arthur Rosenstock and Mrs. Rosenstock; James Gallagher, president of the Empire State District Council; and Donald McLaughton, international vice president of the American Newspaper Guild. Mr. Rosenstock, who just recently returned from Vienna where he attended the convention of International Journalists, addressed the assemblage on the subject of mutual objectives sought by both publishers and Guild members. He stressed the importance of maintaining the essentials of a free press in America.

Acceptance speeches were also made by the Page One Award winners. Charles J. Tiano, general chairman, introduced the guests at the speakers' table. This was Mr. Tiano's first public appearance since he was stricken with a virus infection early in April. He was discharged from the hospital on Friday, May 24.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Overweights May Need Psychiatric Treatment

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

Some months ago when our 14-year-old girl was nearly 30 pounds overweight, our family doctor finally got her to diet. We all co-operated and by the end of 3 months she lost 12 pounds. She felt better, looked really pretty and could wear the becoming dresses we bought her. Then suddenly she began overeating again. She has now gained more than the weight she lost and won't discuss it with me or with our doctor . . .

ANSWER: Did you by any chance suggest that wonderful new popularity, including boys admiration would be the reward of her weight loss?

Such promises, made directly or indirectly to a child who is trying to reduce, is mistaken support. Hope of the grand future we present may help to melt off the first 10 pounds; but when the initial improvement in appearance fails to produce the glorious experiences, discouragement floods back—and the child will again reach for comfort of rich food.

Support of an overweight child through the arduous process of reducing is a delicate business. Praise of his effort can also affect him adversely. For the effort is essentially a very lonely one. All the sympathy we can pour out on him does not change the fact that he is the person who has to sustain the boring diet. If in our eagerness, we overpraise him, he may resent our enthusiasm as a grab at HIS achievement—and revert to overeating to deny us the satisfaction which he has to earn for us.

Dr. Hilde Bruch, clinical professor of psychiatry at Columbia University is one of our noted specialists on the problem of overweight. In her book "The Importance of Overweight," she writes:

"The great danger is to charge ahead and recommend or even urge reducing without having evaluated the extent to which the persons abesity represents his effort to stay well."

You and I are not qualified to "evaluate" the meaning of her overweight to your daughter. But we can certainly perceive that your discouragement with her failure to maintain her diet may be multiplied for her, perhaps to the point of secret despair — and that this may be the time to consider the wisdom of psychiatric counsel.

That the fat person is a victim of public contempt in America is a point stressed by Dr. Bruch. He is constantly bombarded by open or hidden propaganda which glorifies slimness as the only criterion of attractiveness while it vilifies overweight as repulsive overindulgence. She reminds us that this public contempt can inflame anxieties already existing in the overweight person, making his struggle far more complex than the simple one of "will power" he is so often told it is. Overweight, this specialist in its treatment tells us, is the way a human being, child or adult, adapts himself to the stresses of his life. And until he can choose another way, it is to be respected.

Psychiatric treatment is based upon respect for the way we have adapted to the life we have been given.

Seventh Annual Page One Ball Is Held; City, County and State Officials Attend

The Seventh Annual Page One Ball drew a capacity attendance Saturday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Sponsored by the Kingston Newspaper Guild, friends and government officials paid tribute to six Page One Award winners and applauded the selection of the new Page One Queen for 1962.

U. S. Senator Jacob K. Javits sent a special message of congratulations to the Guild which was read by the Guild president, Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, general coordinator of the Page One Ball.

Miss Sara Imhoff, 17 year old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Imhoff of Saugerties was crowned queen. First runner-up was Linda Louise Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lambert of Esopus, and second runner-up was Jane Markovsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Markovsky of Kingston. The new queen was crowned by Miss Page One of 1961, Miss Mary Chambers of Kingston.

Officials Attend

Among the many dignitaries attending the Page One function this year were Senator and Mrs. E. Ogden Bush; Assemblyman and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson; Alderman-at-Large and Mrs. Harold Kaye; Mayor and Mrs. John J. Schwenk; Bernhardt S. Kramer, representative for Congressman J. Ernest Wharton, and Mrs. Kramer; Maurice Goldberg, an assistant to the State Attorney General, and Mrs. Goldberg; and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy.

Also seated at the speakers table was the international president of the American Newspaper Guild, Arthur Rosenstock and Mrs. Rosenstock; James Gallagher, president of the Empire State District Council; and Donald McLaughton, international vice president of the American Newspaper Guild. Mr. Rosenstock, who just recently returned from Vienna where he attended the convention of International Journalists, addressed the assemblage on the subject of mutual objectives sought by both publishers and Guild members. He stressed the importance of maintaining the essentials of a free press in America.

Acceptance speeches were also made by the Page One Award winners. Charles J. Tiano, general chairman, introduced the guests at the speakers' table. This was Mr. Tiano's first public appearance since he was stricken with a virus infection early in April. He was discharged from the hospital on Friday, May 24.

Dick McCarthy, top radio personality, served as master of ceremonies. Donald Fellows of Saugerties sang the National Anthem and a moment of silence was observed in memory of two departed Guildsmen, Philip S. Kelly and Maurice Hamilton.

Guild President Mrs. Narel expressed her appreciation to all Guildsmen who had assisted with the ball. Acknowledging the president's tribute were: Irwin Thomas, editor of the Page One Program Book; John W. Davis, cover artist; Mrs. Betty Saban, Page One Queen chairman; Edward Palladino Jr., Page One treasurer; and Albert Cawein, publicity chairman.

Short Circuit Suspected Cause Of Rotron Fire

Fire, believed to have been caused by a short circuit in an immersion heater, today gutted a 40 by 50-foot frame building on the property of Rotron Manufacturing Co. Inc., causing an estimated loss between $5,000 and $6,000, according to Charles Raible, plant manager.

The fire was discovered in Plant 1 building, which houses the welding department, shortly before 5:30 a. m. by Howard Hopkins, night watchman. He summoned firemen from Woodstock and West Hurley.

Raible said about 50 firemen were at the scene and battled the flames, which were confined to the one building, which the plant manager said was gutted.

The fire caused a problem for the firm, Raible said, but there will be no interruption in production. The estimate of the loss was reported by Raible.

46-Year-Old Upstate Woman Charged With Shooting Boyfriend

The woman told police that the victim, Robert Offord, 46, attacked her with a kitchen knife as they argued. He was shot twice in the chest.

It was not known what the argument was about.

It was also Mr. Tiano's first public appearance since he was stricken with a virus infection early in April. He was discharged from the hospital on Friday, May 25. (Freeman photo)

Fire Destroys Barn in Glasco

A frame barn on the Austin Tonnensen property, Glasco Turnpike, Mt. Marion, Saturday night was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin.

The fire was discovered shortly before 7:30 p. m. and firemen from Mt. Marion-Ruby were dispatched to the scene. During the height of the fire local fire officials summoned aid from Centerville Fire Company.

Before the fire was brought under control, burning embers and sparks from the burning structure ignited the roof of the rear porch of the main house, but firemen quickly quelled the flames, and little damage resulted.

Firemen were at the scene until after 10 p. m. No estimate of the loss was reported by fire officials.

Dixie Negroes Warned About Rides North

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Southern Negroes have been warned by a high official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People not to accept free transportation north unless they have prospects for jobs and housing.

The warning, by Gloster B. Current, NAACP director of branches, was aimed at so-called 'reverse freedom rides," which he described as attempts by southern white citizens councils to embarrass northern liberals.

In a speech Sunday night to the Buffalo NAACP chapter, Current said:

"Sending a few destitute Negroes to the North and West may seem funny, but they are not an effective answer to the problem which the South must face. . ."

Thruway Workers Make Protest At West Nyack

Robert Sass, of New York City, representative of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, today said that members of Local 1090, composed of New York State Thruway employes had formed a "protest" picket line at West Nyack.

The line was established, he said, to protest "abusive action" by the superintendent at the West Nyack maintenance garage, toward the local's president, Pasquale Amatucci, of Nyack and union members in what was considered an attempt to "union-bust" the organization.

No strike was in effect, he said. He indicated that later membership action is expected. The union has some 400 members.

Fire Destroys Barn in Glasco

A frame barn on the Austin Tonnensen property, Glasco Turnpike, Mt. Marion, Saturday night was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin.

The fire was discovered shortly before 7:30 p. m. and firemen from Mt. Marion-Ruby were dispatched to the scene. During the height of the fire local fire officials summoned aid from Centerville Fire Company.

Before the fire was brought under control, burning embers and sparks from the burning structure ignited the roof of the rear porch of the main house, but firemen quickly quelled the flames, and little damage resulted.

Firemen were at the scene until after 10 p. m. No estimate of the loss was reported by fire officials.

Dixie Negroes Warned About Rides North

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Southern Negroes have been warned by a high official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People not to accept free transportation north unless they have prospects for jobs and housing.

The warning, by Gloster B. Current, NAACP director of branches, was aimed at so-called 'reverse freedom rides," which he described as attempts by southern white citizens councils to embarrass northern liberals.

In a speech Sunday night to the Buffalo NAACP chapter, Current said:

"Sending a few destitute Negroes to the North and West may seem funny, but they are not an effective answer to the problem which the South must face. . ."

Thruway Workers Make Protest At West Nyack

Robert Sass, of New York City, representative of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, today said that members of Local 1090, composed of New York State Thruway employes had formed a "protest" picket line at West Nyack.

The line was established, he said, to protest "abusive action" by the superintendent at the West Nyack maintenance garage, toward the local's president, Pasquale Amatucci, of Nyack and union members in what was considered an attempt to "union-bust" the organization.

No strike was in effect, he said. He indicated that later membership action is expected. The union has some 400 members.

Preparations Set For Annual Paltz Memorial Parade

Preparations have been completed for the annual Memorial Day parade in the Village of New Paltz which will be preceded by a tour of graves of the war dead by local veterans.

The parade this year is under the direction of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who alternate with the American Legion.

The parade will begin at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Robert McKenna, Commander of the VFW has announced the line of march as follows:

The route will start at Main Street at the corner of Manhein Boulevard and proceed to North Front, to Church Street, left to Chestnut and South Main, right to Wurtz Avenue, south to Mohonk and south to Chestnut, north to Main and up Main to Plattekill Avenue and the Town Hall where ceremonies honoring the war dead will be held.

This year the ceremony will also include the dedication of the new Town Hall and moving of the Memorial Plaque from its original position on Huguenot Square to the front lawn of the Town Hall.

Howard C. St. John, Kingston attorney and former county district attorney, will be the guest speaker.

Paraders, in order of march include: Commander's car; town and village officials; poppy girl; Gold Star Mothers; VFW color guard and company followed by a contingent from Stewart Air Force Base; VFW, American Legion and Auxiliaries; American Legion; a Kingston band; New Paltz Fire Department; Gardiner Fire Department; Boy Scouts; Cub Scouts; Girl Scouts and Brownies; New Paltz High School Band and the Little New Paltz League.

3 Teachers Resign, Positions Filled

At the recent regular meeting of the New Paltz Central School Board the resignation of three teachers was accepted with regret.

Resignations include Miss Katherine Zimmerman, First Grade; Mrs. Marie Schmalkuche, kindergarten, and Miss Alyce Littlefield, business department.

Three new applications to replace those resigning were accepted. They are: Mrs. Patricia O'Conner of New Paltz to replace Miss Zimmerman who is moving to California; Mrs. Robert Clarkson of New Paltz to replace Mrs. Schmalkuche, and Miss Marcella Coral who is currently teaching in Avella, who will replace Miss Littlefield. All will begin their new positions in the fall.

Ralph Buchanan, a member of the board, was appointed to take the minutes of the meeting to replace Frank Hamilton who is attending a conference of business managers.

The board has been checking the cost of towel service for the Physical Education Department to insure better clean towel service in the lockers. The board also approved the purchase of a reconditioned paper cutter for the sum of $250. This they felt was a fair saving as it cost $700 when new and is still in excellent condition.

Joseph Foley reported that a substantial saving had been realized by bidding for school supplies on a cooperative basis with other area schools. This purchase, a recent one, includes ink, paper, and other items. The board also approved the contract with the Board of Cooperative Services for the purchase of fuel oil, food and cafeteria supplies. This is the same contract that was used last year.

The board approved a proposition to rent a garage of Richard Redfern who resides near the school for the storage of the tractor and other district owned supplies.

A letter from the County Office of Civil Defense was read asking the board permission to use part of the school building for shelter purposes in case of a nuclear attack. The parts found adaptable have already been inspected by the Civil Defense Office. This shelter would be used for the community, and the program would be a coordinated effort of federal, state and county origin.

Frederick Dippel, supervising principal, read a letter reporting favorably on the foreign languages of the State Education Dpeartment.

July 3 was scheduled for the reorganization meeting of New Paltz Central School Board at which time the new members including Myra Stillman, Joseph Foley and Jay LeFevre will take office, and new officers, official designations and appointments will take place.

The board refused a former request by Alex Thoben to have the school bus pick up three children residing on Yankee Fowler Road which is only a half-mile from Route 299.

The announcement was made that the chairman of the evaluation program would be Dr. Gilmore Fisher, superintendent of schools in Ewing Township, New Jersey.

Annual Visit Tuesday

The Rt. Rev. Charles Boynton will make the annual visit to St. Andrew's Episcopal Church Tuesday, 8 p. m. to confirm a class of 14 people presented by the Rev. Dudley Bennett. This week's series will be about defensive problems, so I am going to skip over the bidding of today's hands except to point out that East would have made three hearts if he had been allowed to play that contract.

West opened the king of hearts and East carefully played the deuce. He wanted his partner to shift and the obvious move would be to a diamond. If West had played the ace and another diamond, East would have ruffed, put West in with another heart, ruffed a third diamond and waited to see if South was smart enough to pick up the king of trumps which would have been unguarded by that time.

It would not matter too much. South would have been down one before he got into the lead.

However, West disregarded his partner's deuce and proceeded to cash the ace of hearts before looking around for new worlds to conquer. Then West led a low diamond. South took East's jack with his queen and lost a trump finesse, but now East could not get his partner back in the lead.

He led a club whereupon South pulled trumps, conceded a trick to the ace of diamonds and made his hopeless contract.

Neither Medical Care Program Full Answer

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two things stand out in the windstorm kicked up over the medical care program backed by President Kennedy and the one the American Medical Association likes.

1. There's a basic difference in principle between them. It is the difference between charity (the AMA program) amd self-paid insurance (the Kennedy program).

2. Neither is the complete answer to old people's expenses when they get sick because neither covers all people over 65 and neither covers all their costs.

Some Explanations

Take the two programs separately.

Under the one the AMA likes (the Kerr-Mills Act which has been in effect since 1960) people who need help—and can qualify for it—get it free. But not all can qualify.

The federal government and the states pitch in to pay the bills. Not all states have this program. Those which do set up their own standards.

This means that one state will pay more kinds of medical bills than another. It also means the limits on who can get the coverage vary.

In one state a person with more than $1,800 a year income can't get it. In another, a person with $1,200 a year income can't get it.

When people do qualify, what they get is free.

The program Kennedy supports (the King-Anderson bill now in Congress) is based on the principle of self-paid insurance through a Social Security tax. Not everyone could get this either if it became law.

Only those over-65 people entitled to Social Security or railway retirement benefits would be eligible, or about 14 million of the 17 million now over 65.

Wouldn't Be Eligible

Those other three million would not be eligible under the King-Anderson bill and would have to get protection under the Kerr-Mills Act (if they could qualify) or find some other way of paying their bills.

The Kennedy-backed proposal would not cover all the medical bills.

It would pay most of the hospital costs (each person would have to pay from $29 to $90 of his hospital bill) and nursing home costs.

Under the Kennedy program each person would have to pay his own doctor's bills.

At a time when the Kennedy administration and other supprters of the King-Anderson bill are supposed to be going all out for it, they are showing an extraordinary reticence in criticizing the Kerr-Mills Act, which they don't think goes far enough at all.

It has become regular policy with Kennedy not to say anything critical of fellow Democrats or their handiwork, presumably because he thinks some day on some other issue he will need them.

Two very important Democrats —Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma and Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas—were the sponsors of the Kerr-Mills Act.

Gives Hearses

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—J. B. Norfleet gives away hearses and he gets requests from all over the country. Folks use them for Sunday school buses.

"I have given away hearses and ambulances to churches all over the Eastern seaboard, from Florida to up North and as far west as Ohio and Tennessee," Norfleet said. Norfleet, a dealer, gets the hearses and ambulances in trade on new ones. Fixed up with seats in the back they seat about 15 persons. He has given away from 50 to 65 so far and expects to give away 15 to 20 this year. They go mostly to small rural churches.

THE MORGAN-GUARANTY SITUATION

When the Federal Reserve Board in Washington rejected the application of the Morgan-Guaranty Trust Company of New York to form a holding company to take over leading banks in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Binghamton, many disappointed Morgan-Guaranty stockholders sold their shares. The stock tumbled $25 a share in price.

And even now many other MG holders are thinking about doing the same thing. That is why this article is being written.

There isn't a better-managed bank in the world than Morgan-Guaranty. And there isn't another bank that carries the quality of accounts of MG.

Deposits on the first of April, 1962 totaled $3,936,000,000. The capital account (very conservatively stated) was over $575,000,000; the bank can lend to one borrower more than $57 millions; $30 millions been set aside as a reserve against loans which do not appear in the statement.

The bank's depositors and borrowers represent the elite of the commercial world. Often a bank carrying small loans has greater difficulty with a $1,000 loan than a big bank with a million-dollar loan. The character and capacity of the borrowers are vastly different.

Morgan-Guaranty has five offices in New York City, two in London one in Paris and one in Brussels. Other representative offices are in Rome, Tokyo and Frankfurt.

During the five-year period from 1957 through 1961, the MG shares earned $29.73. Dividend payments totaled $20.13.

In 1959 the international banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company merged with the Guaranty Trust Company. The Morgan stockholders received three stock dividends—25 per cent, 20 per cent, and 16⅔ per cent — during the 1951-1957 period.

In 1953, the stock of Guaranty Trust Company was split up five for one and in 1957, a 20 per cent stock dividend was paid. Thus any investor can see that the present management of Morgan-Guaranty has its vision attuned to tax-free stock dividends.

With earnings of $29.73 a share since the last dividends in stock were voted by both J. P. Morgan and Guaranty Trust and with dividend payments of $20.13, it is not hard to envision another tax-free stock dividend in the near future.

In six years, 1951-1957, Morgan paid three stock dividends and in nine years Guaranty split the stock five for one and paid a substantial stock dividend.

Morgan-Guaranty is equipped to do anything in the field of domestic and foreign banking. Its trust department is perhaps the biggest in the world. Operating revenues in 1961 were more than $42 millions, including foreign-exchange income.

This article has been written as an open letter to the scores of Morgan-Guaranty stockholders who have written this column asking if, since the merger plan has been disapproved, the shares shouldn't be sold.

The answer is an emphatic "no."

(A) you can get about 4¾ per cent by buying some good-grade rail bonds and some high-grade preferred stocks. Ask your banker for a list.

matter of Fact

Some popular songs were originally seamen's "shanties" or "chanties." These were songs sung by the sailors on merchant ships as they worked. This form of singing and the name for it was not new with the sailors, however. It came from the French Canadian lumbermen who sang as they hauled their logs. The English word is a corruption of the French word, chanter, "to sing."

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Wounds of President Kennedy's clash with the steel industry over higher prices still pain many business leaders. Their outcries continue, after seven weeks, at annual meetings, industrial group gatherings and the like. In fact, many who at first seemed shocked into silence are just finding tongue in recent days.

And it may be a long time before the wounds heal. When they do the kind of scar tissue they leave could show quite plainly in whatever new government-business-labor relationship is being formed out of this year's dramatic conflict.

Business criticism centers on the guidelines on prices and wages which the administration first cajoled and then pressured steel labor and management into accepting as "noninflationary and therefore in the public interest."

Criticism of recent days covers a wide range—from "steady march to socialism" to the comparatively mild head-shaking over the raising of "higher barriers of suspicion between government and business."

Steelman Most Vocal

Steelmen understandably are the most vocal, since theirs are the first and deepest wounds. The attempt April 10 of many leading steel companies to raise prices was beat back in a flare of headlines by the administration.

But leaders of other industries are critical, too.

Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., decries administration pressure "to intervene directly in matters of collective bargaining and the economic decisions of business in an effort to hold a lid on costs and prices."

He told stockholders at the annual meeting in Detroit: "I do not think the present approach of direct pressure is economically sound, necessary or, in the long run, effective. Politically, I think it has dangerous implications.

Confidence Being Weakened

L. D. Welch, chairman of New Jersey Standard Oil, told stockholders meeting in Chicago that business confidence was being weakened by "the frequency of government charges and investigations, restrictions on mergers, spreading efforts to control prices, one-sided domination at the wage bargaining table, discrimination against firms only because of bigness, and punitive taxation against foreign investments."

The productivity guidelines drew fire from a rubber industry leader at the White House conference on economic issues. J. Ward Keener, president of B. F. Goodrich, called them "impractical and unwise." He feared insistence on their use "may hinder settlements, lead to unnecessary strikes, or bring about settlements not in the long range interest of the parties" involved—whether business, labor, or government.

Lip Service Belied

Another figure prominent in the rubber industry was still more critical of the trend of government-business relations in general. Dr. Ray P. Dinsmore, retired vice president of Goodyear Tire & Rubber, told a meeting of chemical scientists that "lip service to free enterprise in the United States is belied by the steady march to socialism."

Many steelmen were bitter at the recent meeting of American Iron & Steel Institute in New York. Allison R. Maxwell Jr., president of Pittsburgh Steel, said what had hit the industry seven weeks ago was "an avalanche of government abuse and coercion, triggered from the White House."

Insidious Doctrine

The guidelines on steel wages and steel prices advanced by the administration struck Maxwell as being "insidious doctrine."

THE MORGAN-GUARANTY SITUATION

When the Federal Reserve Board in Washington rejected the application of the Morgan-Guaranty Trust Company of New York to form a holding company to take over leading banks in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany and Binghamton, many disappointed Morgan-Guaranty stockholders sold their shares. The stock tumbled $25 a share in price.

And even now many other MG holders are thinking about doing the same thing. That is why this article is being written.

There isn't a better-managed bank in the world than Morgan-Guaranty. And there isn't another bank that carries the quality of accounts of MG.

Deposits on the first of April, 1962 totaled $3,936,000,000. The capital account (very conservatively stated) was over $575,000,000; the bank can lend to one borrower more than $57 millions; $30 millions been set aside as a reserve against loans which do not appear in the statement.

The bank's depositors and borrowers represent the elite of the commercial world. Often a bank carrying small loans has greater difficulty with a $1,000 loan than a big bank with a million-dollar loan. The character and capacity of the borrowers are vastly different.

Morgan-Guaranty has five offices in New York City, two in London one in Paris and one in Brussels. Other representative offices are in Rome, Tokyo and Frankfurt.

During the five-year period from 1957 through 1961, the MG shares earned $29.73. Dividend payments totaled $20.13.

In 1959 the international banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company merged with the Guaranty Trust Company. The Morgan stockholders received three stock dividends—25 per cent, 20 per cent, and 16/⅔ per cent — during the 1951-1957 period.

In 1953, the stock of Guaranty Trust Company was split up five for one and in 1957, a 20 per cent stock dividend was paid. Thus any investor can see that the present management of Morgan-Guaranty has its vision attuned to tax-free stock dividends.

With earnings of $29.73 a share since the last dividends in stock were voted by both J. P. Morgan and Guaranty Trust and with dividend payments of $20.13, it is not hard to envision another tax-free stock dividend in the near future.

In six years, 1951-1957, Morgan paid three stock dividends and in nine years Guaranty split the stock five for one and paid a substantial stock dividend.

Morgan-Guaranty is equipped to do anything in the field of domestic and foreign banking. Its trust department is perhaps the biggest in the world. Operating revenues in 1961 were more than $42 millions, including foreign-exchange income.

This article has been written as an open letter to the scores of Morgan-Guaranty stockholders who have written this column asking if, since the merger plan has been disapproved, the shares shouldn't be sold.

The answer is an emphatic "no."

Today's Business Mirror

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Wounds of President Kennedy's clash with the steel industry over higher prices still pain many business leaders. Their outcries continue, after seven weeks, at annual meetings, industrial group gatherings and the like. In fact, many who at first seemed shocked into silence are just finding tongue in recent days.

And it may be a long time before the wounds heal. When they do the kind of scar tissue they leave could show quite plainly in whatever new government-business-labor relationship is being formed out of this year's dramatic conflict.

Business criticism centers on the guidelines on prices and wages which the administration first cajoled and then pressured steel labor and management into accepting as "noninflationary and therefore in the public interest."

Criticism of recent days covers a wide range—from "steady march to socialism" to the comparatively mild head-shaking over the raising of "higher barriers of suspicion between government and business."

Steelman Most Vocal

Steelmen understandably are the most vocal, since theirs are the first and deepest wounds. The attempt April 10 of many leading steel companies to raise prices was beat back in a flare of headlines by the administration.

But leaders of other industries are critical, too.

Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., decries administration pressure "to intervene directly in matters of collective bargaining and the economic decisions of business in an effort to hold a lid on costs and prices."

He told stockholders at the annual meeting in Detroit: "I do not think the present approach of direct pressure is economically sound, necessary or, in the long run, effective. Politically, I think it has dangerous implications.

Confidence Being Weakened

L. D. Welch, chairman of New Jersey Standard Oil, told stockholders meeting in Chicago that business confidence was being weakened by "the frequency of government charges and investigations, restrictions on mergers, spreading efforts to control prices, one-sided domination at the wage bargaining table, discrimination against firms only because of bigness, and punitive taxation against foreign investments."

The productivity guidelines drew fire from a rubber industry leader at the White House conference on economic issues. J. Ward Keener, president of B. F. Goodrich, called them "impractical and unwise." He feared insistence on their use "may hinder settlements, lead to unnecessary strikes, or bring about settlements not in the long range interest of the parties" involved—whether business, labor, or government.

Lip Service Belied

Another figure prominent in the rubber industry was still more critical of the trend of government-business relations in general. Dr. Ray P. Dinsmore, retired vice president of Goodyear Tire & Rubber, told a meeting of chemical scientists that "lip service to free enterprise in the United States is belied by the steady march to socialism."

Many steelmen were bitter at the recent meeting of American Iron & Steel Institute in New York. Allison R. Maxwell Jr., president of Pittsburgh Steel, said what had hit the industry seven weeks ago was "an avalanche of government abuse and coercion, triggered from the White House."

Insidious Doctrine

The guidelines on steel wages and steel prices advanced by the administration struck Maxwell as being "insidious doctrine."

Arthur B. Homer, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, characterized them as "crazy" and "cockeyed."

Time heals most wounds. But right now a lot of business leaders are still pretty sore.

matter of Fact

Some popular songs were originally seamen's "shanties" or "chanties." These were songs sung by the sailors on merchant ships as they worked. This form of singing and the name for it was not new with the sailors, however. It came from the French Canadian lumbermen who sang as they hauled their logs. The English word is a corruption of the French word, chanter, "to sing."

Distribution Is More Important Thing: Counsel

PITTSBURGH (AP)— "The method of distribution is the thing, not the type of containers," says Morey Myers, chief counsel of the State Milk Commission.

Myers said in Harrisburg that the agency will consider during a hearing in Pittsburgh the quantity discount prices for gallon sales of milk in western Pennsylvania regardless of the type or size of container purchased.

The hearing was scheduled to start today.

There was the unlikely possibility the hearing might be postponed by an injunction.

The Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Association asked Dauphin County Court Saturday to enjoin the commission from beginning the hearing.

The court questioned the feasibility of issuing the injunction. It was to make its decision today.

The dairy association told the court "irreparable harm will result to your complainants (the Pittsburgh milk dealers) and to all other dealers similarly situated," unless the hearing is postponed.

The court also was asked to delay the effective date of a new commission order allowing sales of milk in two attached half-gallon containers, known as twin-packs, at gallon discount prices in the Pittsburgh area.

The twin-pack discount sales are to begin June 1.

Myers said the commission now "will consider elimination of the requirement that containers be fastened together to form gallon units."

Kurtz to Head Local Jaycees

Gerald Kurtz was elected president of the Saugerties Junior Chamber for the coming year when the organization held its May meeting last week at the Stonewall Hotel. According to officials the campaign was highly competitive and the meeting room resembled a national convention with placards and slogan banners filling the quarters during the elections.

Other officers elected were Frank Antalek, internal vice president; George Leombruno, external vice president; James Pepperl, treasurer; Robert McNary, secretary; Charles Lecher, state director and Harry Olson and Joseph Gavner, local directors.

Installation of officers will take place on June 9. Special guests will include Peter Williams, supervisor of the Town of Saugerties; Mayor George P. Holmes, of the Village of Saugerties; Donald Fellows, Man of the Year; Nathan Aaron, president of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ed Hofler, past president of the local chapter will be the installing officer. Donald Lawson will act as master of ceremonies, Robert Schnell is chairman of the program.

Little Gardens Society Plans Coming Events

The Saugerties Society of Little Gardens met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Daniel Lamb. Several members announced the dried arrangement planting they are doing for fall use. A newspaper article was read announcing that the State Conservation Department is planning to open more forest land to the public. This action is considered necessary to meet the growing demands for recreational purposes.

The club decided to change the award given to the student in the Saugerties School. This award will be given to the student completing four years of science rather than the six year course required previously.

A request from the Jaycees to help in planning the park on Partition Street met with considerable interest and the club will be glad to assist in any way. The club also voted to purchase another living tree for use at Christmas. The location has not been decided as yet for this planting.

Final plans were discussed for the Flower Show which is scheduled for Wednesday, June 6 in the parish room of the Saugerties Reformed Church, 3:30 to 9 p. m. There are many beautiful gardens in the Saugerties area and the members hope many people will bring exhibits. These are not limited to Garden Club members and the public may participate. Programs for the show may be obtained from Banks Stationery Store, Offerman's, The Flower Garden, Overbaugh's Flower Shop and the Cellar Shop. Those having unusual plant or flower of any kind may bring it as it is of great interest to the club and also to the viewers.

During the social hour following the meeting the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Lamb Jr., Mrs. Arthur Lamb Sr., and Mrs. Harold Van Voorhis.

June 20 at 12:30 p. m. the club will gather in Mrs. Kenneth Beadle's yard for a picnic. Each member will bring her own lunch. In case of rain this picnic will be cancelled.

Mrs. Armstrong To Head Board Of Finger Home

Other officers for the new year include Mrs. Norman Nitschke, vice president; Mrs. Elsie Fischang, secretary and Mrs. Olsen, treasurer.

Announcement was made that there now exists two vacancies at the home for the elderly ladies. Information may be obtained from any member of the board for admission.

Following refreshments served by the hostess, the board recessed until September 3.

Williams Fined $50 For Assaulting Woman

Accused of assaulting a woman in her home early Sunday morning, Philip Williams, 37, of Lucas Avenue Extension, Accord, was arrested by Ellenville State Police on a charge of third degree assault.

Trooper Joseph Houston said Williams was arrested on complaint of Elizabeth Rogers, of the Accord address. Williams pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Abram D. Smith, Town of Rochester, and was fined $50, which was paid. Williams also received a 60-day suspended sentence.

260-Pound Python Now At Private Zoo

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Methusaleh, a 260-pound python, is now at his new home in a private zoo here.

The snake, claimed by his owners to be the largest in captivity, is 31 feet long and is estimated to be about 100 years old.

Methusaleh's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wise Barry of nearby Buckingham, Pa., had quartered the python in a room of their home.

To move him, the Barrys enticed the snake into a large canvas sack and then four husky men loaded the sack into a blanket-lined tub. Methusaleh was captured nine years ago in Thailand. He eats only once a month. That meal consists of 30 to 35 defeathered chickens.

Favorite American hymn is "The Old Rugged Cross."

LONDON (AP) — Australia's minister of immigration has come to Britain to entice pretty girls away from home.

"There aren't nearly enough attractive young women in Australia," said Alexander Downer Sunday. "I would like to see many more emmigrate from Britain."

Downer, who is touring European countries, told newsmen, "I have got the reputation of being an international woman chaser."

Kurtz to Head Local Jaycees

Gerald Kurtz was elected president of the Saugerties Junior Chamber for the coming year when the organization held its May meeting last week at the Stonewall Hotel. According to officials the campaign was highly competitive and the meeting room resembled a national convention with placards and slogan banners filling the quarters during the elections.

Other officers elected were Frank Antalek, internal vice president; George Leombruno, external vice president; James Pepperl, treasurer; Robert McNary, secretary; Charles Lecher, state director and Harry Olson and Joseph Gavner, local directors.

Installation of officers will take place on June 9. Special guests will include Peter Williams, supervisor of the Town of Saugerties; Mayor George P. Holmes, of the Village of Saugerties; Donald Fellows, Man of the Year; Nathan Aaron, president of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ed Hofler, past president of the local chapter will be the installing officer. Donald Lawson will act as master of ceremonies, Robert Schnell is chairman of the program.

Little Gardens Society Plans Coming Events

The Saugerties Society of Little Gardens met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Daniel Lamb. Several members announced the dried arrangement planting they are doing for fall use. A newspaper article was read announcing that the State Conservation Department is planning to open more forest land to the public. This action is considered necessary to meet the growing demands for recreational purposes.

The club decided to change the award given to the student in the Saugerties School. This award will be given to the student completing four years of science rather than the six year course required previously.

A request from the Jaycees to help in planning the park on Partition Street met with considerable interest and the club will be glad to assist in any way. The club also voted to purchase another living tree for use at Christmas. The location has not been decided as yet for this planting.

Final plans were discussed for the Flower Show which is scheduled for Wednesday, June 6 in the parish room of the Saugerties Reformed Church, 3:30 to 9 p. m. There are many beautiful gardens in the Saugerties area and the members hope many people will bring exhibits. These are not limited to Garden Club members and the public may participate. Programs for the show may be obtained from Banks Stationery Store, Offerman's, The Flower Garden, Overbaugh's Flower Shop and the Cellar Shop. Those having unusual plant or flower of any kind may bring it as it is of great interest to the club and also to the viewers.

During the social hour following the meeting the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Lamb Jr., Mrs. Arthur Lamb Sr., and Mrs. Harold Van Voorhis.

June 20 at 12:30 p. m. the club will gather in Mrs. Kenneth Beadle's yard for a picnic. Each member will bring her own lunch. In case of rain this picnic will be cancelled.

Mrs. Armstrong To Head Board Of Finger Home

The Board of Managers of the Ellen Russell Finger Home elected Mrs. Milton Armstrong as its president for the coming year when it met recently at the home of Mrs. Stanley Olsen in Blue Mountain.

Other officers for the new year include Mrs. Norman Nitschke, vice president; Mrs. Elsie Fischang, secretary and Mrs. Olsen, treasurer.

Announcement was made that there now exists two vacancies at the home for the elderly ladies. Information may be obtained from any member of the board for admission.

Following refreshments served by the hostess, the board recessed until September 3.

Williams Fined $50 For Assaulting Woman

Accused of assaulting a woman in her home early Sunday morning, Philip Williams, 37, of Lucas Avenue Extension, Accord, was arrested by Ellenville State Police on a charge of third degree assault.

Trooper Joseph Houston said Williams was arrested on complaint of Elizabeth Rogers, of the Accord address. Williams pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Abram D. Smith, Town of Rochester, and was fined $50, which was paid. Williams also received a 60-day suspended sentence.

260-Pound Python Now At Private Zoo

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Methusaleh, a 260-pound python, is now at his new home in a private zoo here.

The snake, claimed by his owners to be the largest in captivity, is 31 feet long and is estimated to be about 100 years old.

Methusaleh's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wise Barry of nearby Buckingham, Pa., had quartered the python in a room of their home.

To move him, the Barrys enticed the snake into a large canvas sack and then four husky men loaded the sack into a blanket-lined tub. Methusaleh was captured nine years ago in Thailand. He eats only once a month. That meal consists of 30 to 35 defeathered chickens.

Favorite American hymn is "The Old Rugged Cross."

HOW LONG DO MOSQUITOES LIVE?

There are about 1,500 known species of mosquitoes and the duration of life varies considerably. The old belief that the natural life of a mosquito is only one day is without foundation. In no known species of mosquito do the young pass through the larva and pupa stages in less than 10 days. Adult mosquitoes live for several months and in some species many of the females hibernate and emerge in the spring to perpetuate the species. Mosquitoes multiply so rapidly that it has been estimated that 160 billion of the insects might spring from a single female in one season. There are insects, however, that hatch and die of old age all within a single day, and that no doubt is the basis of the belief that mosquitoes live only twenty-four hours. The adult life of some May flies is only about 6 hours. They belong to the class of insects known as Ephemera, which means "beginning and ending in one day." The same sun that sees them transformed from the final pupa stage into perfect insects sees them die before it sets. Although their adult lives are so short, their larva and pupa stages may extend over a period of weeks, months or even years.

NEARER PERFECTION

"I wish I were nearer perfection," I said,
As I sat on the sofa with her;
The lamp threw a halo of gold o'er her head,
Her breath was like orris and myrrh.
"That's easy, she said," with a smile in her eyes,
A trick she had gathered from Venus;
And then, with a laugh and fluttering sigh,
She cast out the pillow between us.

No Major Changes Reported as Pin Tourney Concludes

Corning Woman 1st in B Singles On Corrected 580

The 29th annual New York State Women's Bowling tournament finished on an uneventful note over the weekend as leaders in most of the divisions retained their positions.

However, a change in the B division singles broke a two-way tie for first place and made Rose Hyder of Corning the winner by one pin over Mary Zimmerman of Buffalo. Both were tied with 579s after last week but an official check credited Miss Hyder with an extra pin, thus giving her the crown.

Joyce Crone of Waverly moved into fifth place in the Class B singles with a 565 triple. In the Class B team event, Assorted Nuts of New York City had a 2349 triple, giving the team a fourth place in the standings.

Remain Status Quo

Aside from those changes, the leaders held their places as the final weekend squads made their bids.

Pasquale's Restaurant of New York City posted the high team score in Class A with 2797. The Class B team leader is the Badgy Galls of New Rochelle with 2413. Spoor and Haines Electric of Poughkeepsie became the only area champion, shooting 2326 in Class C. Bourdon's Insurance of Hammond posted 2180 in Class D to take honors in that division.

Mrs. Barara Korthas of Syracuse captured two championships. Her 679 led the singles and her 1770 was tops in the coveted all-events. Miss Hyder's 580 was the best score in the Class B singles while a 565 by Lee Roy led the C singles.

The Class A doubles champions are Frances Waligara and Ruth Green of Dunkirk with an 1146. Estella Shields and Carrie Wallace of Brooklyn are the B doubles champs with 1040 and the C winners are Irma Upplnghouse and Pat Conrad of Newburgh with 982.

Officials will now start the task of rechecking scores, addressing envelopes and sending out checks to the winners. These mopping up jobs are expected to be concluded within a couple of weeks.

Felipe Alou Leads SF Sweep; Jim Gentile On a Hot Streak

Gets Five Hits In Twinbill to Top Mets Twice

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Felipe Alou didn't throw any haymakers in that big brawl at San Francisco's Candlestick Park, but he did do some key punching where it counted—at the plate.

Alou combined with Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays, main eventers in the wild-swinging fight, to produce a flurry of telling hits as the Giants rapped New York's last-place Mets Sunday 7-1 and 6-5 and protected their National League lead over the sizzling Los Angeles Dodgers.

Felipe batted in three runs in each game, collected five hits, scored three times and stole three bases. He was the clutch man in the Giants' winning four-run rally in the eighth inning of the second game, singling in Mays and Cepeda, then coming around with the clincher on a wild pitch, a steal of third and a passed ball.

Cepeda had five hits, one RBI and three runs scored. Mays registered four hits, one RBI and scored four. When the dust had settled, the Giants had their fifth successive victory and the sagging Mets' loss string had been extended to eight.

Eight Straight Wins

In Los Angeles, the Dodgers kept 1½ games back of the Giants and ran their winning streak to eight with a sweep over Philadelphia, 5-2 and 2-1. Cincinnati took over third place by winning its fourth in a row, 10-0 over Chicago, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Purkey; Milwaukee edged St. Louis 4-3, and Pittsburgh trimmed Houston's error-plagued Colts 7-2.

Winner Jack Sanford and relief star Stu Miller checked the Mets on five hits in the opener at San Francisco and Jim Duffalo won the second game in relief. Roger Craig and Craig Anderson were losing pitchers.

Tempers began to simmer in the first inning of the first game when Craig threw a couple of brush-back pitches at Mays, but the explosion didn't come until the seventh.

What a Melee

The melee lasted six minutes and involved about 50 participants, many of them playing peacemaking roles. As with most baseball brawls, few telling blows landed.

New York shortstop Elio Chacon, the only man ejected, carried away the only known wound —a minor spike mark on his left leg.

Tim Harkness struck the winning blow for the Dodgers in their second game with a bases-loaded single after two were out in the bottom of the ninth, giving right-hander Don Drysdale his 12th straight victory over the Phillies. Drysdale (7-3) pitched an eight-hitter in a tight showdown with Art Mahaffey.

Frank Howard was the key hitter in the opener with three singles and a triple and three runs batted in. The huge outfielder also committed an unusual base-running boner, failing to touch third and being declared out on a homer by John Roseboro. Stan Williams was the winning pitcher with last-out relief from Ron Perranoski.

Purkey Wins Eight

Purkey won for the eighth time in nine decisions by holding Chicago to four singles in Cincinnati's runaway. The ace right-hander yielded only two hits and a walk through eight innings, then two singles in the ninth as the Reds continued their climb by taking the 12th of their last 15 starts. They bombed Don Cardwell and two successors for 14 hits, including homers by Vada Pinson and Gordie Coleman in a six-run fourth inning.

Milwaukee bunched its four runs into the fifth inning and held on for its close one over St. Louis. The Cards got to winner Bob Shaw for a run in the ninth when Ken Boyer tripled and Carl Sawatski singled, but Stan Musial killed the rally by grounding into a double play.

The Braves hammered Bob Gibson in the fifth as Eddie Mathews singled, Hank Aaron doubled and Mack Jones doubled—all following two walks after two were out.

Pittsburgh put together a five-run sixth inning with the help of Houston's erratic fielding in whipping the Colts. Vern Law pitched an eight-hitter for the Pirates, who took advantage of five Houston errors and racked up five unearned runs.

Boxer Critical After Collapsing

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — A young middleweight boxer is in critical condition after collapsing during training.

Doctors said Freddie Perkins, 23, of Henderson, was still in a coma but that brain hemorrhaging had stopped.

Perkins collapsed Saturday while training for a 12-round Nevada State middleweight title fight. He was to have met champion Roxell Mosley of Las Vegas Tuesday.

A doctor said Perkins may have been training too hard or may have suffered a brain injury in the sparring session.

Speedway Contestants Keep Wary Eye on Texan A. J. Foyt

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 33 starters in Wednesday's 500-mile auto race were allowed their first workout in eight days at the Speedway today and 32 of them were watching 1961 winner A. J. Foyt Jr. out of the corner of their eyes.

The husky Texan, U.S. Auto Club national champion the last two years, had been overshadowed in the qualifications by Parnelli Jones, defending national sprint car champ, who turned the old race track's first 150-mile-an-hour lap in the qualifications.

Then Foyt went out and beat Parnelli at his specialty Sunday on new Indianapolis Raceway Park's ⅝-mile track, six miles west of the Speedway.

The field was full of 500 drivers but the 50-lap event was strictly a two-car race between Foyt and Jones. Jones, who had set a new qualifying record for the track, led 37 laps. Then Foyt squeezed past on a turn and won decisively in record time.

Elmer George, son-in-law of Speedway owner Tony Hulman, won a see-saw battle for third place from Bob Mathouser and Jim Hurtubise, former Speedway record holder.

Today's three-hour session is primarily to test carburetion but also will give late qualifiers a chance to check the way their cars handle with full fuel tanks. They ran the 10-mile time trials with only a few gallons of the alcohol fuel instead of the 55 gallons or so they will carry at the start of the 500.

Bird Star Raps 15th HR in 11th To Spark 4-2 Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's big Jim Gentile is a lousy hitter. So says Jim Gentile.

American league pitchers have an entirely different version of the story. The figures seem to support the pitchers. To wit: a .309 batting average, 36 runs batted in (second in the league) and a league-leading total of 15 home runs.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pound Gentile is unimpressed.

"I'm a lousy hitter," he said. "But I have to admit I'm a lucky one."

Lousy or lucky, the results are impressive. Take his last six games: 11 hits in 25 times at bat, six home runs and 11 runs batted in. Or take Sunday's game. He had three hits, including an 11th inning homer, in the Orioles' 4-2 triumph over Boston.

Cleveland took sole possession of first place with a 5-3 triumph over Washington while New York split a pair with Detroit. The Yanks won the first 4-1, lost the second 5-1. Minnesota pulled to within a half-game of the top with a sweep over Chicago, 5-4 and 8-6. Los Angeles and Kansas City split, the A's taking the first 3-2, the Angels the second 6-3.

Gets 'Lucky' Again

Russ Snyder broke the 2-2 tie at Boston with an 11th-inning homer, just one out before Gentile struggled to the plate and "got lucky" with his 15th homer. Brooks Robinson had an earlier home run for the Orioles.

Home runs by Tito Francona and Willie Kirkland staked Cleveland to a 5-1 lead in the fifth inning and the Indians took it from there in beating Washington and grabbing sole control of the top spot.

The Yankees fell a half-game off the pace when Detroit's Paul Foytack (3-1) stopped them on six hits in the nightcap. Foytack struck out eight and stranded 11 Yankee runners. A three-run eighth inning, featuring Chico Fernandez' two-run single, put it out of reach. The Yanks won the first on Bill Skowron's three-run homer in the ninth.

Batter Splits Finger

Minnesota pulled to within a half game of Cleveland and 9 percentage points of New York with its sweep, but lost the services of cather Earl Battey, who suffered a split finger. Rookie George Banks' two-run homer, his first in the majors, was the difference in the opener.

Harmon Killebrew hammered a three-run homer, his 11th, to highlight a four-run seventh inning that won the nightcap for the Angels and gave them a split with Kansas City.

The A's spotted Los Angeles a 2-0 lead in the first, but came back to take it. A run-producing seventh inning single by Joe Azcue climaxed the comeback behind the six-hit pitching of Dave Wickersham (5-1).

Hawks Win, 7-5, Over Siena

Skip Davidson pitched the New Paltz College Hawks to their fourth win in 11 outings, 7-5, over Siena Saturday at the winners' diamond.

Davidson, only a freshman, surrendered five hits but he was in constant hot water, passing 11 batters. Catcher Paul Stark supplied the clincher, a two-run homer in the eighth innfng after the visitors had uncorked a four run rally in the seventh to come close at 5-4.

New Paltz will conclude its season Wednesday, playing Oneonta State. The team will be among the letter winners honored tonight at the first annual awards dinner, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m.

The Giants backed Grant Dunham's one-hit pitching with 15 blows off three opposing hurlers to rout the Mets, 25 to 0, Saturday in the Esopus Legion Little League.

Joe Vitarius' double with two outs in the first inning was the only safety yielded by Dunham, who struck out 10, walked four. Dunham also paced the Giants attack with two doubles and two singles in six at bats.

Jeff Lisman hit a triple and two singles and Dick Kren a single and double for the Giants. Orlando Landi stroked three singles and John Fitzgerald added two. The Giants scored eight runs in the fourth inning and completed the rout with 10 runs in the sixth.

Fred Harris, Randy Harris and Art Fisher and Bob Westbrook shared the Mets pitching chores. Fred Harris had nine strikeouts.

No Major Changes Reported as Pin Tourney Concludes

Corning Woman 1st in B Singles On Corrected 580

The 29th annual New York State Women's Bowling tournament finished on an uneventful note over the weekend as leaders in most of the divisions retained their positions.

However, a change in the B division singles broke a two-way tie for first place and made Rose Hyder of Corning the winner by one pin over Mary Zimmerman of Buffalo. Both were tied with 579s after last week but an official check credited Miss Hyder with an extra pin, thus giving her the crown.

Joyce Crone of Waverly moved into fifth place in the Class B singles with a 565 triple. In the Class B team event, Assorted Nuts of New York City had a 2349 triple, giving the team a fourth place in the standings.

Remain Status Quo

Aside from those changes, the leaders held their places as the final weekend squads made their bids.

Pasquale's Restaurant of New York City posted the high team score in Class A with 2797. The Class B team leader is the Badgy Galls of New Rochelle with 2413. Spoor and Haines Electric of Poughkeepsie became the only area champion, shooting 2326 in Class C. Bourdon's Insurance of Hammond posted 2180 in Class D to take honors in that division.

Mrs. Barara Korthas of Syracuse captured two championships. Her 679 led the singles and her 1770 was tops in the coveted all-events. Miss Hyder's 580 was the best score in the Class B singles while a 565 by Lee Roy led the C singles.

The Class A doubles champions are Frances Waligara and Ruth Green of Dunkirk with an 1146. Estella Shields and Carrie Wallace of Brooklyn are the B doubles champs with 1040 and the C winners are Irma Uppinghouse and Pat Conrad of Newburgh with 982.

Officials will now start the task of rechecking scores, addressing envelopes and sending out checks to the winners. These mopping up jobs are expected to be concluded within a couple of weeks.

Felipe Alou Leads SF Sweep; Jim Gentile On a Hot Streak

Gets Five Hits In Twinbill to Top Mets Twice

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Felipe Alou didn't throw any haymakers in that big brawl at San Francisco's Candlestick Park, but he did do some key punching where it counted—at the plate.

Alou combined with Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays, main eventers in the wild-swinging fight, to produce a flurry of telling hits as the Giants rapped New York's last-place Mets Sunday 7-1 and 6-5 and protected their National League lead over the sizzling Los Angeles Dodgers.

Felipe batted in three runs in each game, collected five hits, scored three times and stole three bases. He was the clutch man in the Giants' winning four-run rally in the eighth inning of the second game, singling in Mays and Cepeda, then coming around with the clincher on a wild pitch, a steal of third and a passed ball.

Cepeda had five hits, one RBI and three runs scored. Mays registered four hits, one RBI and scored four. When the dust had settled, the Giants had their fifth successive victory and the sagging Mets' loss string had been extended to eight.

Eight Straight Wins

In Los Angeles, the Dodgers kept 1½ games back of the Giants and ran their winning streak to eight with a sweep over Philadelphia, 5-2 and 2-1. Cincinnati took over third place by winning its fourth in a row, 10-0 over Chicago, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Purkey; Milwaukee edged St. Louis 4-3, and Pittsburgh trimmed Houston's error-plagued Colts 7-2.

Winner Jack Sanford and relief star Stu Miller checked the Mets on five hits in the opener at San Francisco and Jim Duffalo won the second game in relief. Roger Craig and Craig Anderson were losing pitchers.

Tempers began to simmer in the first inning of the first game when Craig threw a couple of brush-back pitches at Mays, but the explosion didn't come until the seventh.

What a Melee

The melee lasted six minutes and involved about 50 participants, many of them playing peacemaking roles. As with most baseball brawls, few telling blows landed.

New York shortstop Elio Chacon, the only man ejected, carried away the only known wound —a minor spike mark on his left leg.

Tim Harkness struck the winning blow for the Dodgers in their second game with a bases-loaded single after two were out in the bottom of the ninth, giving right-hander Don Drysdale his 12th straight victory over the Phillies. Drysdale (7-3) pitched an eight-hitter in a tight showdown with Art Mahaffey.

Frank Howard was the key hitter in the opener with three singles and a triple and three runs batted in. The huge outfielder also committed an unusual base-running boner, failing to touch third and being declared out on a homer by John Roseboro. Stan Williams was the winning pitcher with last-out relief from Ron Perranoski.

Purkey Wins Eight

Purkey won for the eighth time in nine decisions by holding Chicago to four singles in Cincinnati's runaway. The ace right-hander yielded only two hits and a walk through eight innings, then two singles in the ninth as the Reds continued their climb by taking the 12th of their last 15 starts. They bombed Don Cardwell and two successors for 14 hits, including homers by Vada Pinson and Gordie Coleman in a six-run fourth inning.

Milwaukee bunched its four runs into the fifth inning and held on for its close one over St. Louis. The Cards got to winner Bob Shaw for a run in the ninth when Ken Boyer tripled and Carl Sawatski singled, but Stan Musial killed the rally by grounding into a double play.

The Braves hammered Bob Gibson in the fifth as Eddie Mathews singled, Hank Aaron doubled and Mack Jones doubled—all following two walks after two were out.

Pittsburgh put together a five-run sixth inning with the help of Houston's erratic fielding in whipping the Colts. Vern Law pitched an eight-hitter for the Pirates, who took advantage of five Houston errors and racked up five unearned runs.

Boxer Critical After Collapsing

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — A young middleweight boxer is in critical condition after collapsing during training.

Doctors said Freddie Perkins, 23, of Henderson, was still in a coma but that brain hemorrhaging had stopped.

Perkins collapsed Saturday while training for a 12-round Nevada State middleweight title fight. He was to have met champion Roxell Mosley of Las Vegas Tuesday.

A doctor said Perkins may have been training too hard or may have suffered a brain injury in the sparring session.

Bird Star Raps 15th HR in 11th To Spark 4-2 Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's big Jim Gentile is a lousy hitter. So says Jim Gentile.

American league pitchers have an entirely different version of the story. The figures seem to support the pitchers. To wit: a .309 batting average, 36 runs batted in (second in the league) and a league-leading total of 15 home runs.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pound Gentile is unimpressed.

"I'm a lousy hitter," he said. "But I have to admit I'm a lucky one."

Lousy or lucky, the results are impressive. Take his last six games: 11 hits in 25 times at bat, six home runs and 11 runs batted in. Or take Sunday's game. He had three hits, including an 11th inning homer, in the Orioles' 4-2 triumph over Boston.

Cleveland took sole possession of first place with a 5-3 triumph over Washington while New York split a pair with Detroit. The Yanks won the first 4-1, lost the second 5-1. Minnesota pulled to within a half-game of the top with a sweep over Chicago, 5-4 and 8-6. Los Angeles and Kansas City split, the A's taking the first 3-2, the Angels the second 6-3.

Gets 'Lucky' Again

Russ Snyder broke the 2-2 tie at Boston with an 11th-inning homer, just one out before Gentile struggled to the plate and "got lucky" with his 15th homer. Brooks Robinson had an earlier home run for the Orioles.

Home runs by Tito Francona and Willie Kirkland staked Cleveland to a 5-1 lead in the fifth inning and the Indians took it from there in beating Washington and grabbing sole control of the top spot.

The Yankees fell a half-game off the pace when Detroit's Paul Foytack (3-1) stopped them on six hits in the nightcap. Foytack struck out eight and stranded 11 Yankee runners. A three-run eighth inning, featuring Chico Fernandez' two-run single, put it out of reach. The Yanks won the first on Bill Skowron's three-run homer in the ninth.

Battey Splits Finger

Minnesota pulled to within a half game of Cleveland and 9 percentage points of New York with its sweep, but lost the services of cather Earl Battey, who suffered a split finger. Rookie George Banks' two-run homer, his first in the majors, was the difference in the opener.

Harmon Killebrew hammered a three-run homer, his 11th, to highlight a four-run seventh inning that won the nightcap for the Angels and gave them a split with Kansas City.

The A's spotted Los Angeles a 2-0 lead in the first, but came back to take it. A run-producing seventh inning single by Joe Azcue climaxed the comeback behind the six-hit pitching of Dave Wickersham (5-1).

Speedway Contestants Keep Wary Eye on Texan A. J. Foyt

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 33 starters in Wednesday's 500-mile auto race were allowed their first workout in eight days at the Speedway today and 32 of them were watching 1961 winner A. J. Foyt Jr. out of the corner of their eyes.

The husky Texan, U.S. Auto Club national champion the last two years, had been overshadowed in the qualifications by Parnelli Jones, defending national sprint car champ, who turned the old race track's first 150-mile-an-hour lap in the qualifications.

Then Foyt went out and beat Parnelli at his specialty Sunday on new Indianapolis Raceway Park's ¾-mile track, six miles west of the Speedway.

The field was full of 500 drivers but the 50-lap event was strictly a two-car race between Foyt and Jones. Jones, who had set a new qualifying record for the track, led 37 laps. Then Foyt squeezed past on a turn and won decisively in record time.

Elmer George, son-in-law of Speedway owner Tony Huiman, won a see-saw battle for third place from Bob Mathouser and Jim Hurtubise, former Speedway record holder.

Today's three-hour session is primarily to test carburetion but also will give late qualifiers a chance to check the way their cars handle with full fuel tanks. They ran the 10-mile time trials with only a few gallons of the alcohol fuel instead of the 55 gallons or so they will carry at the start of the 500.

Hawks Win, 7-5, Over Siena

Skip Davidson pitched the New Paltz College Hawks to their fourth win in 11 outings, 7-5, over Siena Saturday at the winners' diamond.

Davidson, only a freshman, surrendered five hits but he was in constant hot water, passing 11 batters. Catcher Paul Stark supplied the clincher, a two-run homer in the eighth innfng after the visitors had uncorked a four run rally in the seventh to come close at 5-4.

New Paltz will conclude its season Wednesday, playing Oneonta State. The team will be among the letter winners honored tonight at the first annual awards dinner, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m.

New boatmen learn that knots which have served them to tie presents and keep their shoelaces together are not the answer in boating.

On the other hand, it isn't necessary for the small-boat man to master the intricate knots used by old salts.

The most common use for a knot is tying to a dock. This can be done with two hitches

The cleat hitch is used to tie to a cleat. Pass the line around the cleat under both horns, then across the top and under the first horn. Tuck the end under and you're hitched. The more pull by the boat, the greater the pressure on the free end which is tucked under.

Yet when you're ready to shove off, merely slacken the pull of the boat and the hitch loosens up and slides free. There's no fussing to undo jammed knots.

Use the clove hitch to make a rapid attachment to posts or piles. It is simply two loops with the free end tucked under. You can prepare the clove hitch so that as you approach a dock you just drop the loops over the top of the post and jerk both ends of the line to make it snug. This quickly frees your hands for the other details of docking.

Don't use this hitch for permanent fastening, since it may eventually slip.

Cepeda, Craig Battle In Candlestick Park

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Maybe Orlando Cepeda should try boxing.

Few things are rarer than an actual solid punch in the usual wrestling match-baseball brawl. But the fiery Giants' first baseman threw away the script in a battle royal with the New York Mets Sunday and landed a series of blows on Roger Craig that scored Cepeda points on nearly every observer's card.

"Sure I was mad at him; he never threw at me before," Cepeda darkly explained after 39,551 fans saw the wildest major league diamond battle ever staged here.

"I never try to hit any batter," countered Craig, who didn't even suit up after the tumultuous first game of a doubleheader and could not be found after the second game. "Those were brush back pitches."

With Mays aboard on a single, Craig thumped Cepeda with a pitch in the back.

Cepeda circled past the mound on his way to first, reached the bag, then made a rush for the pitcher. Giants Manager Alvin Dark showed his Louisiana State football prowess with a sparkling tackle of Cepeda and trouble was temporarily avoided.

Craig then tried to pick Mays off second. Willie slid into Elio Chacon, spiked him in the lower left calf and Elio promptly socked him in the back.

"He wanted to get somebody," Chacon muttered later. "He gave me a spike so I hit him." Mays promptly dumped the 163-pound shortstop over his shoulder, fell on him and they began a painless wrestling match.

Dugouts and benches emptied. When Cepeda saw Craig start toward the struggling pair, he rushed toward the pitcher and pummeled him with a series of lefts and rights.

Peace-makers finally shoved the Giants' 200-pound Puerto Rican into right field. Felix Mantilla of the Mets led a brigade which broke up the Mays-Chacon struggle and order was restored after six minutes.

Casper's 264 Record Wins Golf Tournament

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — When the king of golf is away, the gang will play—and profitably, too.

In the absence of Arnold Palmer, priming for the U.S. Open, Billy Casper, Sunday won the $50,000 "500" Festival Open with a record-smashing 264 total, 20 strokes under par.

Along with Casper, runner-up to Palmer in this year's PGA money-winning list, no fewer than five other golfers shattered the Speedway tourney record of 270 set by Doug Ford in 1960.

Ford, seeking a third straight Speedway title, didn't do so well. His 277 put him in a six-way tie for 29th and earned him only $291.

The hot-shooting Casper's $9,000 take swelled his 1962 purse to $41,208.

It seemed for a few minutes in the Speedway that a sudden death playoff might be in order. Jerry Steelsmith and husky George Bayer each stormed to a 19-under-par finish with closing eagle threes just ahead of Casper, last to play.

But Casper birdied the 71st hole to go 19 under par and then came up with another birdie on the last hole for his closing 64.

Bayer, whose last victory was in the 1960 St. Petersburg Open, delighted the crowd with a 20-foot eagle putt for the day's best round, an 8-under-par 63. Steelsmith finished with 64, matching Bayer at 265. Each collected $3,800.

Sharing fourth place at 268 were Bruce Crampton and Bill Collins, each getting $2,450, while Dave Ragan took $2,100 with his sixth-spot 269.

Final Boxing Show at St. Nick's

It's farewell to old St. Nicks and hello again to ancient Archie Moore tonight.

Welterweights Stefan Redl of Paterson, N.J., and Tony Fortunato of New York are featured in the final boxing card at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. The 56-year-old boxing club, the nation's oldest fight pit, will be torn down to make way for a skyscraper.

Old Archie, 48 by the record book and perhaps as old as St. Nicks, takes on 26-year-old Willie Pastrano of Miami in a Joe Louis promotion at the Los Angeles Sports Arena tonight.

If Willie the pastrami is geared to go his fastest, he's liable to have the San Diego veteran showing his years by the end of the 10-rounder. The Florida light heavy, a pro 11 years despite his comparative youth, is one of the shiftiest fighters in the business. Willie is so hard to hit squarely he never has been floored in his long career.

No matter who wins, Archie most likely will need a long rest afterwards. Still the ancient one, recognized by California as world light heavyweight king, has to be the favorite on his seven-fight victory streak and his ability to cope with all styles.

Another good match on the Monday night card matches Eddie Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender from Portland, Ore., and Roger Rischer of Oakland, Calif., at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

Pitching — Bob Purkey, Cincinnati, shut out Chicago 10-0 on four hits and struck out seven in winning his eighth against one loss.

Robin Roberts Shines in Debut With Baltimore

BOSTON (AP) —Crafty veteran Robin Roberts — whose major league career appeared finished when he was cut adrift by the New York Yankees—was back in business today as a Baltimore starter.

The 35-year-old right-hander worked 7 2-3 innings Sunday in the Orioles' 4-2, 11-inning victory over the Boston Red Sox. He was not involved in the decision, but Manager Billy Hitchcock was impressed.

"In our setup, I feel we need five starters," Hitchcock said. "I think Roberts showed enough to put him in the regular rotation. I was very pleased with his showing."

The Orioles picked Roberts up last Monda as a free agent after he had spent three weeks shopping around after the Yankees decided he couldn't make the team.

He allowed eight hits and two runs Sunday in his first American League start and left nine Red Sox runners stranded.

"It's nice to break in on a winning game, even though I didn't get the victory myself," Roberts said. Homers in the 11th by Russ Snyder and Jim Gentile settled the contest.

Cepeda, Craig Battle In Candlestick Park

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Maybe Orlando Cepeda should try boxing.

Few things are rarer than an actual solid punch in the usual wrestling match-baseball brawl. But the fiery Giants' first baseman threw away the script in a battle royal with the New York Mets Sunday and landed a series of blows on Roger Craig that scored Cepeda points on nearly every observer's card.

"Sure I was mad at him; he never threw at me before," Cepeda darkly explained after 39,551 fans saw the wildest major league diamond battle ever staged here.

"I never try to hit any batter," countered Craig, who didn't even suit up after the tumultuous first game of a doubleheader and could not be found after the second game. "Those were brush back pitches."

Craig had floored Willie Mays twice in the first inning of the twin bill, but real trouble didn't ignite until the seventh round.

With Mays aboard on a single, Craig thumped Cepeda with a pitch in the back.

Cepeda circled past the mound on his way to first, reached the bag, then made a rush for the pitcher. Giants Manager Alvin Dark showed his Louisiana State football prowess with a sparkling tackle of Cepeda and trouble was temporarily avoided.

Craig then tried to pick Mays off second. Willie slid into Elio Chacon, spiked him in the lower left calf and Elio promptly socked him in the back.

"He wanted to get somebody," Chacon muttered later. "He gave me a spike so I hit him." Mays promptly dumped the 163-pound shortstop over his shoulder, fell on him and they began a painless wrestling match.

Dugouts and benches emptied. When Cepeda saw Craig start toward the struggling pair, he rushed toward the pitcher and pummeled him with a series of lefts and rights.

Peace-makers finally shoved the Giants' 200-pound Puerto Rican into right field. Felix Mantilla of the Mets led a brigade which broke up the Mays-Chacon struggle and order was restored after six minutes.

New boatmen learn that knots which have served them to tie presents and keep their shoelaces together are not the answer in boating.

On the other hand, it isn't necessary for the small-boat man to master the intricate knots used by old salts.

The most common use for a knot is tying to a dock. This can be done with two hitches

The cleat hitch is used to tie to a cleat. Pass the line around the cleat under both horns, then across the top and under the first horn. Tuck the end under and you're hitched. The more pull by the boat, the greater the pressure on the free end which is tucked under.

Yet when you're ready to shove off, merely slacken the pull of the boat and the hitch loosens up and slides free. There's no fussing to undo jammed knots.

Use the clove hitch to make a rapid attachment to posts or piles. It is simply two loops with the free end tucked under. You can prepare the clove hitch so that as you approach a dock you just drop the loops over the top of the post and jerk both ends of the line to make it snug. This quickly frees your hands for the other details of docking.

Don't use this hitch for permanent fastening, since it may eventually slip.

Casper's 264 Record Wins Golf Tournament

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — When the king of golf is away, the gang will play—and profitably, too.

In the absence of Arnold Palmer, priming for the U.S. Open, Billy Casper, Sunday won the $50,000 "500" Festival Open with a record-smashing 264 total, 20 strokes under par.

Along with Casper, runner-up to Palmer in this year's PGA money-winning list, no fewer than five other golfers shattered the Speedway tourney record of 270 set by Doug Ford in 1960.

Ford, seeking a third straight Speedway title, didn't do so well. His 277 put him in a six-way tie for 29th and earned him only $291.

The hot-shooting Casper's $9,000 take swelled his 1962 purse to $41,208.

It seemed for a few minutes in the Speedway that a sudden death playoff might be in order. Jerry Steelsmith and husky George Bayer each stormed to a 19-under-par finish with closing eagle threes just ahead of Casper, last to play.

But Casper birdied the 71st hole to go 19 under par and then came up with another birdie on the last hole for his closing 64.

Bayer, whose last victory was in the 1960 St. Petersburg Open, delighted the crowd with a 20-foot eagle putt for the day's best round, an 8-under-par 63. Steelsmith finished with 64, matching Bayer at 265. Each collected $3,800.

Sharing fourth place at 268 were Bruce Crampton and Bill Collins, each getting $2,450, while Dave Ragan took $2,100 with his sixth-spot 269.

Final Boxing Show at St. Nick's

It's farewell to old St. Nicks and hello again to ancient Archie Moore tonight.

Welterweights Stefan Redl of Paterson, N.J., and Tony Fortunato of New York are featured in the final boxing card at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. The 56-year-old boxing club, the nation's oldest fight pit, will be torn down to make way for a skyscraper.

Old Archie, 48 by the record book and perhaps as old as St. Nicks, takes on 26-year-old Willie Pastrano of Miami in a Joe Louis promotion at the Los Angeles Sports Arena tonight.

If Willie the pastrami is geared to go his fastest, he's liable to have the San Diego veteran showing his years by the end of the 10-rounder. The Florida light heavy, a pro 11 years despite his comparative youth, is one of the shiftiest fighters in the business. Willie is so hard to hit squarely he never has been floored in his long career.

No matter who wins, Archie most likely will need a long rest afterwards. Still the ancient one, recognized by California as world light heavyweight king, has to be the favorite on his seven-fight victory streak and his ability to cope with all styles.

Another good match on the Monday night card matches Eddie Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender from Portland, Ore., and Roger Rischer of Oakland, Calif., at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting — Felipe Alou, San Francisco, had five hits, drove in six runs and had three stolen bases in Giants sweep of a doubleheader against the New York Mets, 7-1, 6-5.

Pitching — Bob Purkey, Cincinnati, shut out Chicago 10-0 on four hits and struck out seven in winning his eighth against one loss.

Robin Roberts Shines in Debut With Baltimore

BOSTON (AP) —Crafty veteran Robin Roberts — whose major league career appeared finished when he was cut adrift by the New York Yankees—was back in business today as a Baltimore starter.

The 35-year-old right-hander worked 7 2-3 innings Sunday in the Orioles' 4-2, 11-inning victory over the Boston Red Sox. He was not involved in the decision, but Manager Billy Hitchcock was impressed.

"In our setup, I feel we need five starters," Hitchcock said. "I think Roberts showed enough to put him in the regular rotation. I was very pleased with his showing."

The Orioles picked Roberts up last Monday as a free agent after he had spent three weeks shopping around after the Yankees decided he couldn't make the team.

He allowed eight hits and two runs Sunday in his first American League start and left nine Red Sox runners stranded.

"It's nice to break in on a winning game, even though I didn't get the victory myself," Roberts said. Homers in the 11th by Russ Snyder and Jim Gentile settled the contest.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Chimp's Trainer Started Through A Want Ad

Gene Detroy, former British acrobat decided 21 years ago that chimpanzies could better his act. Seventeen years ago he needed an assistant trainer and he ran a want ad in a British newspaper. Norman Leonard answered the ad and was hired. Today the chimps, there are 3 of them, are the stars of a new TV series called, "The Hathaways". Peggy Cass and Jack Weston are co-stars. They play the role of husband and wife. The chimps are their kiddies. It's a hilarious show with the chimps stealing the comic honors in this new TV series.

Soviets Put Up Satellite, Tass Agency Declares

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has put another unmanned satellite—Cosmos 5 — into orbit around the earth.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said it was a routine artificial earth satellite and that it was functioning normally.

It is the fifth satellite in the Cosmos series which the Soviets began on March 16. Tass said: "A routine artificial earth satellite, Cosmos 5, has been launched in the Soviet Union. According to provisional data, the flight of the satellite is taking place on an orbit close to that planned."

The first of the Cosmos series of Soviet satellites was launched on March 16. It was the first Soviet space launching in seven months.

The Soviets announced they would launch a series of artificial earth satellites during 1962 to explore radiation and other hazards man will face in extended space travel.

The fourth in the Cosmos series was launched April 26 and was brought down safely on orders from the ground three days later, the Soviets announced.

Tass said Cosmos 5 was circling the earth in 102.75 minutes. The angle of its orbit's inclination to the equator is 49 degrees, the highest point of its orbit is 994 miles and the lowest point is 126 miles above the earth, Tass said.

Buffalo Mayor Thinks Strike Will Not Come

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —Mayor Chester Kowal says he doesn't think a threatened strike of 400 city employes over proposed economy layoffs will come.

The mayor said Saturday night that he plans to explain the city's tough financial situation to leaders of the city employes who announced that they would stage a "sickness strike" if the mayor goes through with planned layoffs.

Kowal said the city faces a $4.1 million budget deficit in an $89.5 million budget this year, and layoffs will be necessary unless a new source of revenue can be found. The 400 workers have pledged to strike if a single one of them is laid off.

The Republican mayor said he had no plans for invoking the state's Condon-Wadlin Act prohibiting strikes by government employes.

The city has about 10,000 workers on its payroll.

The members of the committee include, beside Mr. Walker, Donald TerBush, John McKenna, Wilson Van Wagner, Marion Eidel, Eugene Ross, Samuel Anderson, Mrs. George Stailing, Manville Wakefield, Clifford Slater, Dorothy Slater, Roger Banta, Gilbert Van Valkenburgh, George Rubenzahl, Pearl Rubenzahl, Jacques Nitschke, Lucille Horton, French Harris, Joseph Raffa, Harold Van Aken, Rev. Town Supervisors Joseph Raffa, Mrs. Slater and Mr. TerBush were appointed to this special committee.
